Ordeal Girl Rests After

While she and her five brothers and sisters walked home from school, the girl was kidnapped by a man who was armed with a shotgun. She was held in a house or shelter for two or three days before the pair took to the woods. A spokesman for the state commented during the massive manhunt that the kidnaper apparently knew the area — one of rocky, wooded mountains and deep valleys — "like the back of his hand."

"I gather she slept outside during those nights," Lorentz said. "She and Hollenbaugh ate beans and corn out of cans." Lorentz said the girl told him the kidnaper dragged her by a chain around the neck several times. Dr. Robert Fry, a physician at the center, said he found no evidence the girl had been molested.

"Bicycle Bill" Peggy Ann may have recognized her captor as the lone figure frequently seen pedaling a battered red bicycle through the neighborhood. Local residents of the tiny nearby community of Burnt Cabins called him "Bicycle Bill" and considered him "very strange."

No suspicion publicly was cast on Hollenbaugh during the first few days of the search for Peggy Ann. But it was later revealed he was a suspect almost from the start and police watched his two-room cabin just off Route 522.

Hollenbaugh's record — a 5-to-10 year penitentiary term for burglary, plus 13 years in Farview State Hospital for the criminally insane — placed him under suspicion. He also

Assembly Rules Unit to Ask New Site Selection

MADISON (AP)—The Assembly Rules Committee voted 3-2 today to introduce a proposal that would create a new committee to pick a northeastern campus of the University of Wisconsin.

The bill was requested by Assemblyman Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, and William Rogers, D-Kaukauna.

The proposal seeks to overturn a site selection committee action which chose an area northeast of Green Bay for the campus.

Froehlich, Rogers and others from Outagamie County have supported a site between Green Bay and Appleton. Froehlich said there have been "considerable controversy and disgust" with the Green Bay site and the Legislature should have the

Rural Oshkosh Man Found Dead in Stable

OSHKOSH — The battered body of a rural Oshkosh man was found Wednesday night underneath a horse in a stable.

A post mortem examination will be performed today on Charles Wraga, who operated the Circle C Ranch at 1737 Knapp Street Road in the Town of Algoma.

Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller said the body was found by a brother, Nick Wraga, 2737 Knapp Street Road, about 9:45 p.m. Wednesday. The brother had noticed lights on in the horse barn and went to investigate.

He found a water hose still running and checking the stalls, found his brother's body in a stall occupied by a horse.

Wraga was taken in the Moore Ambulance to Mercy Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The post mortem examination is to determine whether he had a heart attack or was trampled to death by the horse. Coroner Miller said Wraga had been dead about two hours.

Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller said an autopsy revealed Wraga died of massive pulmonary hemorrhages.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Theodore Francis Green, 98, who retired from the U.S. Senate in 1960, died today at his home. He was the oldest man ever to serve in the Senate.

Green's doctor said his heart failed.

Green was stricken in late 1962 with a series of cerebral strokes.

For four months he was hospitalized and then went into a nursing home. He left the convalescent home three months later, stepping spryly into a car for the drive to his own home.

Green suffered a broken hip in his home three weeks before his 96th birthday, Oct. 2, 1963.

Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi, R-Minocqua, one of the rules committee members who voted against introduction, said, "Someone is going to be unhappy about any selection."

Voting with Alfonsi and against introduction was Assemblyman George Molinaro, D-Kenosha. Assembly speaker Robert Huber, D-West Allis; majority leader Frank Nikolay, D-Abbotsford, and assistant majority leader Norman Anderson, D-Madison, voted for introduction.

Both Anderson and Huber said their vote did not mean they wanted to alter the site selection committee's choice of the Green Bay area but they agreed the issue should be heard on the floor.

Warden Says Regents Head Blocked Justice Complaint Sworn Out in Ashland Against Attorney

ASHLAND (AP)—A conservation warden has sworn out a complaint against the president of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents after a dispute over seizure of an automobile wanted for evidence in an investigation.

The warden said the automobile was owned by a man arrested after another warden was killed in an accident while chasing persons suspected of illegal fishing.

L. Arthur De Bardeleben of Park Falls called the charges in the complaint "absurd and ridiculous."

The warden, Don Nimmer of Mellen, said DeBardeleben, an attorney, was accused of obstructing an officer and disorderly conduct.

Disorderly Conduct Also charged with disorderly conduct was Adelaide Wanda of Butternut, Nimmer said.

"The first I've heard of it is right now," DeBardeleben told The Associated Press. "If there has been such a charge made, I'll be prepared to reply to it at the proper time and place."

DeBardeleben was reached by telephone at Marshfield Hospital where he is under treatment for an abdominal ailment.

Nimmer said his disagreement with DeBardeleben came May 8 in Butternut during an investigation into the death earlier that day of Warden Robert B. Markle, 54.

Markle's car overturned in the Bass Lake area while he was chasing persons suspected of illegal spear fishing.

Arrested in the case was James Stubblefield, 47, of rural Butternut.

Auto Found Several hours before Stubblefield's arrest, his automobile was found on property owned by Mrs. Wanda in Butternut, Nimmer said. The car was sealed and tagged as evidence before a wrecker was called by wardens to haul it away.

Nimmer said Mrs. Wanda objected to the seizure and DeBardeleben was called to the scene.

The attorney said he was in Butternut that day "defending a client charged with a number of violations of the conservation laws."

He said a demand was made on Mrs. Wanda for personal

Head of State Efficiency Audit Says Most Taxes Spent Locally

BY DICK LYNEIS Post-Crescent Business Editor

GREEN LAKE — Formation of "Little Hoover Commissions" in individual Wisconsin communities was recommended here Wednesday afternoon by the man who heads the commission conducting an efficiency audit of the state government in Madison.

William R. Kellett, retired president of Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah, and chairman of the Kellett committee which is conducting the Wisconsin government efficiency study told about 400 delegates to the Governors Conference on Industrial Development that state government gets only 20-25 percent of available tax money in citizens donating their time and talent.

"An independent viewpoint," he said, "only has the interest of the taxpayers."

"We Like It Here," Kellett said, "only means anything if there is participation. People must realize that liking something means an obligation to participate."

Kellett, who still serves as a Kimberly-Clark director, said his study group has found "a great need" for arranging priorities in demands and services. "We ought to be able to offset new government services and problems caused by inflation by reductions of costs in older services and agencies," he said.

Savings Already He said the committee "is only getting started." So far, he said, the committee's recommendations total about $33

The Highway Construction Bill

For nearly eight years there has been talk in Madison about accelerating the construction of new state highways and improving the carrying capacity of some of the older trunks. When Gaylord Nelson reached the executive office in 1959, he let it be known that he was considering as a major recommendation to the legislature a big highway improvement program as the most tangible contribution to the general economy of the state that could be made. As it happened, Mr. Nelson's interests were diverted into other channels. In the negative sense he was preoccupied during most of his first term with the issue of general state service financing. Later he put his principal energies into the espousal of an outdoors recreational program which may well be his most enduring achievement as governor.

But John W. Reynolds, succeeding him, embraced the blueprint that Nelson had drawn in tentative form, and in the most strenuous effort of his gubernatorial career, campaigned for what he called "Project 66", which would have been the most ambitious road improvement program ever sponsored in Madison. That dream met a quick death, however, when skeptical legislators submitted the issue to a referendum and permitted the opponents of motor fuel taxes to occupy the ensuing debate with an almost complete default of the affirmative side of the case.

Now Gov. Knowles, a Republican, is campaigning for a more energetic highway construction effort even more earnestly, if possible, than did his predecessors.

His project is more modest. Indeed, it may be that its limited dimensions may be one of its defects. Too many legislators are able to discern that the Knowles program contains no very definite promises of any substantial highway improvements in their own bailiwicks. Too few of them, evidently, are willing to acknowledge that even about $15,000,000 a year in additional income to the state highway construction fund will nevertheless improve the chances for their own districts ultimately in getting the local construction projects that they desire.

In any event, the outlook in Madison for endorsement by the legislature of the Knowles bill is doubtful, according to all accounts. It may be that the push should have been applied last summer or last fall, when the average lawmaker was not as sensitive about the proximity of his reelection campaign. It may be that these men are genuinely convinced that their constituents are not interested in a program of providing better main line roads. But we are inclined to suggest that a more important factor is public indifference, including the lethargy of local business associations, individual businessmen who should recognize the relation of transportation efficiency to their own prosperity, tourist promotion associations and many others.

Wisconsin needs a better road program. If the effort to achieve it fails again in the present legislature, it will be a mark of the apathetic response of those among us who should know better and who have abdicated leadership responsibilities.

Viet Nam Events Indicate Dark Future for Gen. Ky's Regime

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — "Degringolade" is a French word meaning how everything slowly came apart. It is the only word I know that adequately covers the events of last weekend in South Viet Nam. For the military seizure of Da Nang is an episode so many-sided in its adverse effects that the costs have to be counted in order to be realized.

Kraft

For a starter, there is the reinforcement, at least temporarily, of the regime of Air Vice Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky. But the Ky regime is unfit to govern South Viet Nam, or any other country. As presently organized, it is not suited even to fight a war. It has little capacity to clear and hold territory in the wake of American military successes, still less to provide security and social services.

Most of the leading generals in the regime — particularly the regional, or corps, commanders — are, quite simply, racketeers, selling off jobs, contracts, real estate, supplies and anything else that comes under their control.

Marshal Ky, though evidently honest, is a hot-headed young pilot. The immediate seat of all the recent trouble seems to be a kind of temper tantrum last March that led him to sack the former corps commander at Da Nang.

Center Is Alienated

Secondly, there is the undoubted alienation, not only of the militant Buddhists, but of virtually the whole elite of the Central coastal plain stretching from Hue to within a few hours of Saigon. Though cool to the Saigon government and suspicious of all foreigners, the Center has at all times represented a distinctly nationalistic strain.

Probably the best way to advantage of a 1965 Wisconsin law which allows the formation of an industrial development agency.

This is to inform you that on Aug. 17, 1965, the Sheboygan County Board adopted a resolution for the creation of just such an agency in Sheboygan County, and we have been working closely with Milwaukee in regard to this movement. Until such time as Milwaukee's friendly suit to determine the tax free interest, it is naturally impossible for us to proceed any further. We certainly hope that Outagamie County will also pass the needed legislation for the creation of just such an agency.

L. N. Mathieu
Executive Vice President
Sheboygan Area
Chamber of Commerce

repel communism in Viet Nam is to mobilize the xenophobic nationalism of the Center. But now the Center is under the gun of the government. It will be a very lucky thing if the Center, and in particular the militant Buddhists, do not commence private negotiations with the Communists. It will not be the first time that militaristic regimes backed by the United States have driven local nationalists into the arms of the Communists.

No Falty in Elections

Thirdly, the avenue for moving from military to civilian rule has now been blocked. Even if some kind of elections are held, nobody can have any faith in their honesty or seriousness. Gen. Ky has already indicated that he intends to rule no matter what the result of the poll.

Lastly, the other side can only be further confined of the utility of keeping up the fight. The only true possibility of heading off the insurgency is to divert its support to a genuinely nationalistic government that might have emerged from free elections. But, against a regime that is as inherently weak and unstable as the Ky regime, the Communists are bound to keep up the pressure.

The American role in all this is murky. But it is certainly no good pleading that the United States was caught by surprise. Virtually everybody in South Viet Nam knew for weeks that some such move was in the offing. On April 27, this column, written from Saigon under the title "Coups and Counter coups," suggested the possibility of a move by Marshal Ky "aimed at preserving the present military crowd in power."

U. S. Response Weak

The truth of the matter is that in the face of this plain menace the American response was uncertain and weak. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge never made it clear that the United States absolutely insisted on free election: without any advance military horseplay. When Gen. Ky first said that he would stay in power for another year, Sec. of State Dean Rusk said only that he must have been misinterpreted. No effort seems to have been made to forestall Marshal Ky's airlift to Da Nang by putting a tight check on fuel supplies.

Perhaps President Johnson and Sec. Rusk and Ambassador Lodge have some clear program for South Viet Nam. But to me, anyway, that is not the way it looks. To me, it is not clear that they know what they are doing.

Middle Income Group Paying 13 Per Cent More Tax, Study Tells

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The most useful and illuminating document the state tax department has produced lately is the report analyzing the redistribution of the state income tax burden as a result of the successive income tax revision acts of the last half dozen years.

Wyngaard

As the department explains in its latest research publication, a broadening of the individual income tax base was one of the major and declared goals of the famed "Blue Ribbon" committee which provided the spadework for the most significant tax policy decisions made by this state in at least half a century. The objectives of such broadening were several.

There was the desire to make the revenue of the tax more stable and reliable, by putting the emphasis upon those earning classes with the most stability of earnings. There was the desire to make the system more productive, by emphasizing the greatest numerical group of taxpayers. There was also the desire to lessen the steepness of the progressivity of liability, as a concession to the state's economic competition with other states of more moderate taxing views and policy, and, sometimes, without any income taxes whatever.

THE RESULT

Now, the department shows the distribution of the $251 million individual state income tax load borne by the people of Wisconsin in 1964, which is the last year for which all data has been computed.

Between 1956 and 1964 the ratio of tax paid by the $6,000 to $12,000 middle income group increased from 23 per cent to 36 per cent, for the largest single change in the groupings.

At the same time the percentage of total taxes paid by those persons with taxable incomes below $6,000 declined from 40 per cent to 33 per cent.

And the liability of the persons in the $12,000 and over net income group decreased from 37 per cent to 31 per cent.

Thus a significant "flattening" of the liability curve has obviously been achieved. Not all members of the Legislature, and not all of the political leaders of the localities, were precisely aware of these implications of the successive revision bills when they were enacted. There was the complaint of one of the northern Milwaukee suburbs a year or more ago, for example, about a decline in its share of the state income tax receipts. Quite obviously, the reduction resulted from the liability revisions, but the local officials found it difficult to appreciate until it was painstakingly explained.

MODIFIED BY SALES TAX

It is important to note that this "broadening" of liability has involved the individual income tax only. During the same period there have been other tax enactments, and notably the acceptance of the sales tax as a basic revenue buttress of the state's expenditures.

Cigarette and other excise taxes have been increased. Presumably the $7,500 smoker doesn't use many more cigarettes than does the $14,000 man. To the extent that general sales taxes on goods and services take a larger share of the income of the middle or low income earner than the high income person those taxes have modified the revisions of the income tax, with respect to the real and total tax liability of particular persons.

The revisions of the income tax rates, plus higher employment, moderate population gains, and most important, the inflation of wages and salaries, have brought about dramatic increases in the number of state income taxpayers. This year, no doubt, they will exceed 2 million. The 1964 analysis shows a 206 per cent increase over 1956 in the number of returns in the $6,000 to $12,000 bracket. Obviously, the income tax system is expanding at a strong rate.

But the expenditure demands, especially for expanded services and new government benefits, are increasing at an even more rapid rate. In that contrast lies the prospect for recurring financial problems in the state government.

Wives, Children Make Most Buying Decisions

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

What many business firms still have to learn is that the "customer" is not the person who pays, but the one who determines the "buying decision," and, increasingly, in our matriarchal and juvenile society, while it remains the man crave from afar seems large. We are aware of the illusion of sight; few are aware of the illusion of desire.

When good luck strikes us, it is helpful to remember the maxim that "fortune is fickle," in order to avoid becoming smug or complacent; but, likewise, when bad luck strikes us, it is equally helpful to keep the same maxim in mind, in order to avoid self-pity or despair.

"There is a wide difference," observed Cato 2,000 years ago, "between true courage and mere contempt of life"—a difference that is not recognized by the desperado, who mistakes for courage his violent actions which merely express his contempt for all life, including his own.

When we deny any part of our nature too ruthlessly, that part does not disappear or remain quiescent, but sooner or later makes its appearance, in some other form, to take its revenge upon the rest of us.

Just as most of our new expressways are obsolete for the heavy flow of traffic by the time they are completed, so are most of our new college buildings already obsolete for the flow of students by the time they are erected—and in both areas, we need desperately to learn that growth is not necessarily the same as progress.

One way to find out whether you are truly an educated person is to see if you can distinguish the differences among the following: education, schooling, learning, and training, which are all quite different things.

who pays, it is the wives and children who make the buying decisions, even in cars and houses.

Many fewer minds are chained by the taboos and restrictions imposed from the outside than are paralyzed by the fears and prejudices imposed by oneself; external freedom is meaningless so long as we remain the prisoners of our own psychic infancy.

What we rarely learn until too late is the paradox expressed in the Talmud, when Alexander asked the Elders what a man should do to live. They replied: Let him kill himself (doing good). He asked what a man should do to kill himself. They replied: Let him live (in self-indulgence.)

The physical laws of perspective are strangely reversed in the psychological world—to the eyes, what is close seems large and what is far seems small; but to the mind, what we have at hand seems small and what we

What Is Journalism?

A panel of newspaper editors attending the University of Michigan's Journalism Day at Ann Arbor, Mich., agreed that journalism is not a profession. One of the editors, Wallace Carroll of the Winston-Salem (N.C.) Journal even called it "nosy business and hell-raising."

Most of us in the newspaper business don't like to think of ourselves as being in a nosy, hell-raising business, but we really can't help but admit it.

And we must agree that our business is not a profession, but rather a trade, a skill, an occupation. And we are proud of it.

Carroll went on to say he would hate to trade the traditions of the newspaper business "for a mess of dubious dignities." Us, too.

A lot of effort and time is wasted by those in some occupations trying to establish that they are professionals.

If these people would back up and reconsider their jobs, they would find there is a good deal more satisfaction in simply performing the duties of one's occupation competently than there is in the "dubious dignities" of professionalism. There's nothing wrong with being just an expert.

They might follow the unprofessional lead of the nosy hell-raisers in the newspaper business.

Mayor Maier Wants Test of State Ballot Law

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier said Wednesday he would welcome a court test of state law ordering Wisconsin's larger cities to acquire voting machines.
Maier, however, did not commit himself directly on whether he would veto an ordinance passed by Milwaukee's Common Council to obtain 1,025 machines by the September primary.

Maier made his comments after Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette told the cities of Kenosha and Superior they were not to take legal action if they failed to comply with the law.

"Let's get it in the courts and find out" whether it can be enforced, said Maier.
The 1963 law requires cities of more than 10,000 population to have the machines in operation by the Sept. 13 election. Milwaukee is the largest city in the nation still using paper ballots.

Maier had favored acquisition of the city of electronic punch-card voting machines instead of the standard-type machines. He has the power to veto the council action. He would say Wednesday only that he would take a "good, hard look" at the measure.

Ky Forces Surround Rebel Headquarters grenade launchers echoed across Da Nang. Snipers on rooftops directed considerable fire at the government forces.

Trucks brought other marines and paratroops from the 2,500-man force Ky sent into Da Nang on Sunday. The government force seemed to be trying to isolate the rebel complex in the east-central part of the city.

Behind Barricade
A cluster of paratroops confronted five yellow-robed monks and Buddhist Boy Scouts seated behind a barricade at one entrance of the pagoda complex. The soldiers appeared reluctant to take any forceful action against the show of passive resistance.

The shooting began about 9:30 a.m. when two government spotter planes circled low over the three pagodas and rebels fired on them. It continued until about noon, sending some of the dissidents into retreat and scattering frantic civilians.

Government paratroops pulled back toward the government-held radio station, and about 50 rebels set up machine guns and dug foxholes. The lull continued for about two hours until 2:12 p.m., when firing resumed with the government advance.

Lodge Stops
U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge stopped in South Korea en route back to Saigon from consultations in Washington but made only a terse statement on arrival in Seoul. He said he had come "to exchange views on the Viet Nam war as part of the policy coordination with the allies."

While the opposing forces maneuvered in South Viet Nam's revolt-torn northern provinces, the military junta banned all political activity in the armed forces, threatening severe penalties for those who disobeyed. The Vietnamese Defense Department directive emphasized the order also applied to chaplains by declaring "a number of religious chaplains went far beyond their religious roles."

Buddhist chaplains have been charged with fomenting anti-government sentiment among troops in the Vietnamese army's northernmost 1st Corps area.

Automatic Fire
A brief flurry of automatic weapons fire echoed across Hue, the other center of dissidence in the 1st Corps 50 miles northwest of Da Nang. U.S. military advisers said antigovernment troops fired on a Vietnamese air force plane that showed them with leaflets. The plane sped off.

Still expecting a government show of force, rebel troops manned roadblocks in the old imperial capital, but there was no indication Ky intended to try to seize that city, too. His surprise airlift of five battalions of marines and paratroops into Da Nang Sunday brought the crisis to a boil.

Saigon police used clubs and tear gas to disperse 600 Buddhist youths who demonstrated against the government Wednesday night despite pleas of monks at the Buddhist Institute not to march.

had not been seen since the kidnaping.

As the investigation advanced, police guessed "Bicycle Bill" also was the mysterious sniper, known locally as the "Mountain Man," who had fired at five persons in the past two years and wounded two.

Opened Fire
The hunt first caught up with him Tuesday when five officers, with dogs, searched an area near Hollenbaugh's cabin.

A sniper, apparently hidden behind a log, opened fire killing FBI agent Terry Ray Anderson, 42.

The sniper disappeared, but was seen by a policeman running through the woods. Peggy Ann was with him. It was the first time the girl had been seen since her disappearance.

Hundreds of reinforcements — state police, FBI agents, National Guardsmen, game wardens, volunteers — threw an armed ring, 20 miles across, around the area to prevent Hollenbaugh's escape.

Ring Tightens
The ring tightened slowly Tuesday to a circle eight miles around, encompassing a peak known as Neelytown Ridge.

At dawn, Wednesday Hollenbaugh tried to break out of the closing ring.

Jack L. Conmy, the governor's press secretary, reconstructing the closing moments of the search, said Hollenbaugh came upon Deputy Sheriff Francis Sharp sleeping in a cabin near the search perimeter.

He shot Sharp, Conmy said, then forced the deputy to drive him and Peggy Ann out of the woods. A quarter-mile away was Route 522. But a dirt road out of the woods was blocked by a closed gate in the farmyard of the Luther Rubeck home.

As Sharp got out to open the gate, state troopers challenged him.

Hollenbaugh opened fire as Sharp ran for cover.

Milking Cows
David Rubeck, 16, and his brother Larry, 15, milking cows in the barn, ran to the house and grabbed their guns. Hollenbaugh dragged Peggy Ann from the car to a nearby corncrib where the girl twisted free and ran to the farmhouse.

As Hollenbaugh passed a side window of the farmhouse he was caught in a cross-fire of gunshots fired by state police and by Larry Rubeck inside the house. Larry's shotgun blast crashed through the window as Hollenbaugh passed by.

At least one shot, fired by either Larry or state trooper Grant H. Mixell — it was not definitely established which — struck Hollenbaugh in the shoulder and passed through near his neck.

Hollenbaugh did not live to reach the medical center, where he, Peggy Ann, and Sharp were taken. Sharp underwent surgery at a hospital in Chambersburg and later was reported in satisfactory condition.

Seeks Pardon to Visit Sister in Wisconsin

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A paroled bank robber who spent three decades in prison asked Wednesday for a full pardon so he could visit his crippled sister in Wisconsin.

Harvey Bailey, 79, said he hadn't seen his sister for 37 years.

A representative of the governor suggested at the pardon hearing that Bailey simply seek permission from his parole officer to go to Wisconsin.

Bailey was paroled from prison last year, but was ordered to remain within 50 miles of his Joplin, Mo., home. P. A. Townsend, parole attorney for Gov. William H. Avery, told Bailey at one point that his reasons for asking a pardon are "just not sufficient grounds."

Humane Group Hints Stolen Dogs in Valley

Illinois Trucks May Be Bringing Pets to Fox Cities

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Humane Society of the United States is looking into reports that truckloads of stolen pets—mostly dogs—are being brought into Wisconsin from Illinois for distribution.

Frank J. McMahon, director of field services for the organization, said the Fox River Valley is believed to be the distribution point.

He confirmed that the association is making the inquiry and added "there is no area where this is not dogging. I understand that Illinois trucks are coming up here."

Dognapping Here
Dognapping has been going on in the Fox River Valley, according to several area organizations interested in the welfare of dogs and pets.

Mrs. Mike Schultz, chairman of the shelter committee for the Animal Welfare League said today that "$196 has been donated to the group" as a permanent reward fund for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person transporting dogs illegally or treating them in an inhumane manner.

Mrs. Schultz said that the reward program is an outgrowth of an incident in February this year. The rewards given will be in $50 amounts, she added.

Council Okays Nursing Home Development

A proposal of an Eau Claire developer to construct a 105-bed nursing home on Appleton's far northeast side was approved by the council Wednesday night.

Previously, the city plan commission said the development met all municipal requirements.

The next step will be a public hearing.

In other action, the council: —Deferred a rezoning request by the law firm of Sigman, Sigman and Schiff to construct an office at Eighth Street and Memorial Drive in a residential area.

—Approved the request of Herbert Stoeger—over vehement objections of Ald. Glenn Thompson (14th)—to rezone from single family to M-1 multiple family property located on E. Newberry Street.

Broehm Accused of Using Post to Intimidate Officials

City Clerk Elden Broehm was accused by Ald. John MacDonald (7th) Wednesday of using his office to "threaten and intimidate" public officials. He made a categorical denial.

MacDonald made his complaint a matter of record in a letter submitted to the council's finance committee at a special meeting at city hall Wednesday night, arising out of an incident Tuesday.

Broehm denied all allegations by MacDonald, and in the shouting match which developed later in the meeting, each accused the other of being "a liar." Broehm claimed MacDonald intimidated him.

The committee received and filed the letter but took no further action.

Questions Parley Attendance
At Monday's finance committee, MacDonald noted the mayor was cracking down on city employees being away from their jobs attending conventions and questioned why the city clerk had to be at Eagle River for three days to attend the state clerks and finance directors conference. MacDonald claimed only the first day's program concerned the clerk and felt he should be absent from the city on one rather than three days.

"Many of the clerk's duties could be classified as 'ceremonial,'" MacDonald said then, "and are prescribed by law."

The next morning (Tuesday) Broehm called MacDonald into his office at city hall and was critical of MacDonald for having questioned his three-day attendance at the convention.

Broehm said the matters to be discussed on the entire program directly concerned his office and accused MacDonald of "telling untruths."

Committee Gets Letter
In his letter to the committee, MacDonald gave his account of what transpired in the clerk's office at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday.

"In the process of explaining my position on the matter to the clerk, the clerk chose to become very belligerent, and on at least three occasions gave outspoken threats in regard to my continuing in office," MacDonald said.

"These threats were specific references to 'necessity of friends at election time' and similar relative remarks," he added.

"In my mind, these were totally undisguised threats, and were clearly an act of impropriety by the city clerk," MacDonald said.

Warrns Against Intimidation
MacDonald told the committee he had no intention of having his position on any matter that came before him at the council or committee level exposed to open intimidation, and said he didn't think any member of city government should be expected to tolerate "such type of an action."

MacDonald said, with this in mind, he had requested the special meeting of the committee because it was the jurisdictional committee for the clerk's office.

The alderman said he did not know what action if any the committee would want to take, but he wanted his letter a matter of record "if for no other purpose than to discourage the recurrence of such unwarranted behavior."

Council Criticizes Buckley; Overrides Water Plan Veto

Workers Vote to Reject FWD Offer

32-Cent Package Turned Down in Wednesday Balloting, 459-208

CLINTONVILLE — For the second time in two weeks, members of Local 815, Allied Industrial Workers (AFL-CIO) rejected an FWD Corp. labor contract proposal.

The latest vote came in three separate meetings Wednesday at the Veterans Memorial building, one for each shift, and turned down the revised offer, 459-208.

The entire work force — which abandoned the plant in a 4-day wildcat walkout in April — was on the job today while the union bargaining committee met with company officials to report the election results and resume negotiations.

Provisions Asked
Provided in the latest company offer was a 16 cent an hour across the board pay increase retroactive to May 9; a 10 cent an hour across the board hike on May 8, 1967; a 40 per cent increase in the company financed retirement plan; and revisions in the labor grades.

The entire package represented 32 cents an hour over a year, a union bargaining committee spokesman said.

The pay grade revision would have made it possible for a worker to reach the top pay in second time in two weeks, his classification in less time, members of Local 815, Allied Industrial Workers (AFL-CIO) pay increases.

It has been a bone of contention for years that it takes too long to work through the many small pay hikes under the present system.

Flared into Open
Labor problems at the truck and heavy equipment manufacturing firm first flared into the open April 25.

On that day 40 welders walked off their jobs in sympathy for a colleague who had been sent home.

The welders were soon joined by a majority of the firm's 1,500 employees. During the wildcat walkout, workers expressed dissatisfaction with their union, Allied Industrial Workers, and petitioned to meet with another union. They conferred unofficially with the Teamsters at Appleton but labor laws prohibit a union switch during contract negotiations.

Workers returned to their jobs May 2 agreeing to give the union a week to work out a contract proposal. The first revision was rejected the following Saturday, May 7.

Mayor Says Conventions Primarily Booze, Baloney

The Appleton Council didn't veto the welfare director's go for Mayor George Buckley's trip.

contention Wednesday night that persons attending national conventions are exposed mostly to "go-go girls, booze and baloney."

By a 15 to 5 vote the council defeated his veto of a previously approved authorization for the city welfare director to attend a national welfare conference at Chicago later in the month.

(A three-fourths majority vote of the council is required to override a mayor's veto.)

However, later in the meeting, the mayor's veto of an action sending two members of the health department staff to the National Restaurant Association equipment show to Chicago for one day was upheld on a 10-10 vote.

Main Intention
It became obvious at the outset that Buckley's main intention was to prevent Welfare Director Merton Ehrlicke from going to the Chicago welfare meeting.

Since taking office, Buckley has said no municipal employees or officials should attend national conventions and should remain within the state. The campaigns to secure new industries were warned today that city council has had a convention policy which is more flexible.

Buckley gave a dramatic performance for aldermen when asked to detail his reasons for

He then proceeded to praise City Clerk Elden Broehm, referring to him "as our faithful servant of 11 years," attending only three national conventions and Treasurer Ray Feuerstein for going to only one in nine years.

Buckley said some other department heads had originally intended to go to out-of-state conventions this year but followed his suggestion and decided not to. "They're with me," he said.

Buckley then walked around the council chambers and stopped in front of each alderman, praising some, chiding others, recalling election campaign activities of some who were for

Delegates Told That Large Cities' Industries Are Targets of Others

GREEN LAKE — Large metropolitan areas of Wisconsin, that are in the midst of the campaigns to secure new industries, are now moving to the suburban and rural areas.

LaSalle National Bank of Chicago, told approximately 350 delegates to the second day of the Governor's Conference on Industrial Development what industries are moving today and why.

"Improved interstate highway systems, modernized railroads, clean local government and utilities which are being built to serve heretofore inaccessible areas have combined to bring about some startling industrial moves."

"The five state Great Lakes area," he said, "is the most highly regarded area in the country for industrial development by the 1,000 largest corporations in the country. These corporations account for about 70 per cent of our country's total industrial development."

Secret Meetings
"More than 80 per cent of these 1,000 large companies," Pohl stated, "have made expansions in new locations in the past five years and another 80 per cent plan expansions within the next five years."

He said that to acquire information about the communities in which they might expand, officials of these companies don't go directly to local industrial development people.

"Instead," he said, "they talk to utilities, banks, railroads and to agencies of state government in that order and they keep their identifications secret. A community never knows when it is being considered for a possible expansion site by one of these large corporations."

Pohl said the best way for a community to reach these corporations is to "rely heavily on the national advertising and strong community public relations."

And, he advised, "The political clean have good industrial sites available and provide good recreational facilities and nearby space for housing development."

Noise Main Factor in Plan Revision

OSHKOSH — State Aeronautics Director Thomas K. Jordan explained to the Winnebago County Board this morning that the noise factor of DC-9 jets is the main reason for the revision in the proposed airport expansion.

He outlined to the county board the new plan for construction of a new north-south runway and for use of the present north-south runway as a taxiway. He cited the noise factor as a new development in airport planning and said that federal law may have to be amended, relative to federal aid which previously did not consider the noise factor.

Jordan said Eau Claire and Brown County also are involved in airport development programs resulting from the introduction next spring of DC 9 planes by North Central Airlines.

Jordan pointed out the new north-south runway would be 6,700 feet long and 150 feet wide with a 2,500 foot long clear zone at the south end of the new runway. This will involve closing Ribble Road between County Trunk I and County Trunk XX. He indicated there are a few properties along the road that will have to be acquired.

Water Project Work Resumes

MENASHA — Work resumed on the Town of Menasha's $1 million water system Wednesday afternoon after a one-day delay caused by an enforced clean-up of town streets.

Town Chairman Roland Kam- po met with representatives of two contracting firms Jeski Construction Co., Green Bay, and Kalupa Construction Co., Berlin to iron out difficulties on returning streets to their proper conditions following the installation of water mains.

Both companies agreed to keep one crew each on clean-up work where mains and laterals have been placed. Other crews will continue with the digging of trenches and sewer and water work.

The town board voted unanimously Monday to stop the work until the firms correct the condition. Numerous residents had complained the crews had installed the pipes but then didn't repair the streets and driveways.

The water system was scheduled to begin operation on June 1 to serve some 1,000 households in the town.

Preparing a Child for Hospital Admittance

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D. that things will be a little uncomfortable, but won't be what you can really call "hurting." It might help if you can think of something that worried him in the past, like, "Can you remember how worried you were when you had your first haircut? And then you found it wasn't anything to be afraid of."

Dr. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: My son is to enter a hospital shortly after his sixth birthday for examination of his kidneys, and I understand the procedure is quite uncomfortable. He is an especially loving and sensitive child. How should I prepare him for his hospital stay? Must I lie, or be perfectly honest when he asks if it will hurt? So far we have tried to teach him that the best things are not always the most pleasant.

Should one parent or the other be with him constantly, or would we be more in the way than helpful?

The hospital is 25 miles from our home. Grandma said she'd help us if needed, but we don't want our boy to be so babied that he will think this is something to be terribly upset about. — R.G.

I wish more people would ask themselves such good questions before a child goes to the hospital for the first time.

One thing is certain: Don't lie to a child! If he asks whether it will hurt, the true answer is

At six, he can understand if you tell him (and this is quite true) that thousands of children, many much younger, have had similar tests. If they can do it, so can he.

Most six-year-olds will respond to an appeal to pride: That you want him to act like a big boy, because you know he can do it.

One thing I certainly would do: Take along some toy or trinket of which he is fond or proud. It may be a stuffed animal, a picture book, a toy pistol, or a cowboy hat. It doesn't matter much what, so long as he likes it very much. It's something for him to hang onto when he feels scared or lonely — not a lot of toys, but one favorite article.

I will leave it to the doctors to decide whether it will be better for you to stay with him all the time, or whether they'd rather you did not. Usually the answer will be for you to get the little fellow settled in the hospital, and use to it — then absent yourself. Your presence would most likely scare him.

Do things matter-of-factly. If you try too hard to reassure him, he may get upset. If you take the experience calmly, he will.

Remember also that wards in most hospitals are geared to make a child's stay pleasant. If he can be out of bed, there often is a playroom or game room. Nurses and aides try to keep a little patient occupied. And quite often he finds a new friend as a room mate.

STAR DASH

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a man, 35, with a borderline hernia. Is it all right for me to bowl? — L.S.

I see no objection. However, if that, or any type of exercise, and snow, the weekly crop and weather report said today.

The summary said that except for fruit trees being damaged, there were no reports of important losses due to freezing temperatures.

"Early season set-backs are seldom as serious as the mid-season ones. Lack of rain," the report noted.

Much of the oat planting was held up. In the northwest only a fourth to a third of the intended acreage was sown. In the northeast, as much as one-half remained to be planted.

Spring plowing was at a near standstill in the north and east. In the west and south it was progressing slowly. Generally, about 30 per cent of the chore was done.

Corn planting is under way with about 6 per cent of the intended planting completed. Only in scattered areas were potatoes planted.

Note to "Nervous Wreck": A persistent vaginal discharge is not normal; however, there are a variety of causes which have nothing to do with the so-called social diseases. Report this to your doctor without hesitation.

Benefits to People Called Important Part of Moon Race

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — "It does not matter which country is first able to send an expedition to the moon or is responsible for some other success in space," a Soviet space scientist has declared.

"The important thing," said Anatoly Blagonravov, "is the benefit it will bring to people: this is the real purpose of all these achievements."

Blagonravov, chairman of the commission for the exploration and use of cosmic space in the Soviet Academy of Sciences, made the statement in an article written for the May issue of the UNESCO Courier, a publication of the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The magazine also carried statements by Soviet and American astronauts urging peaceful development of outer space.

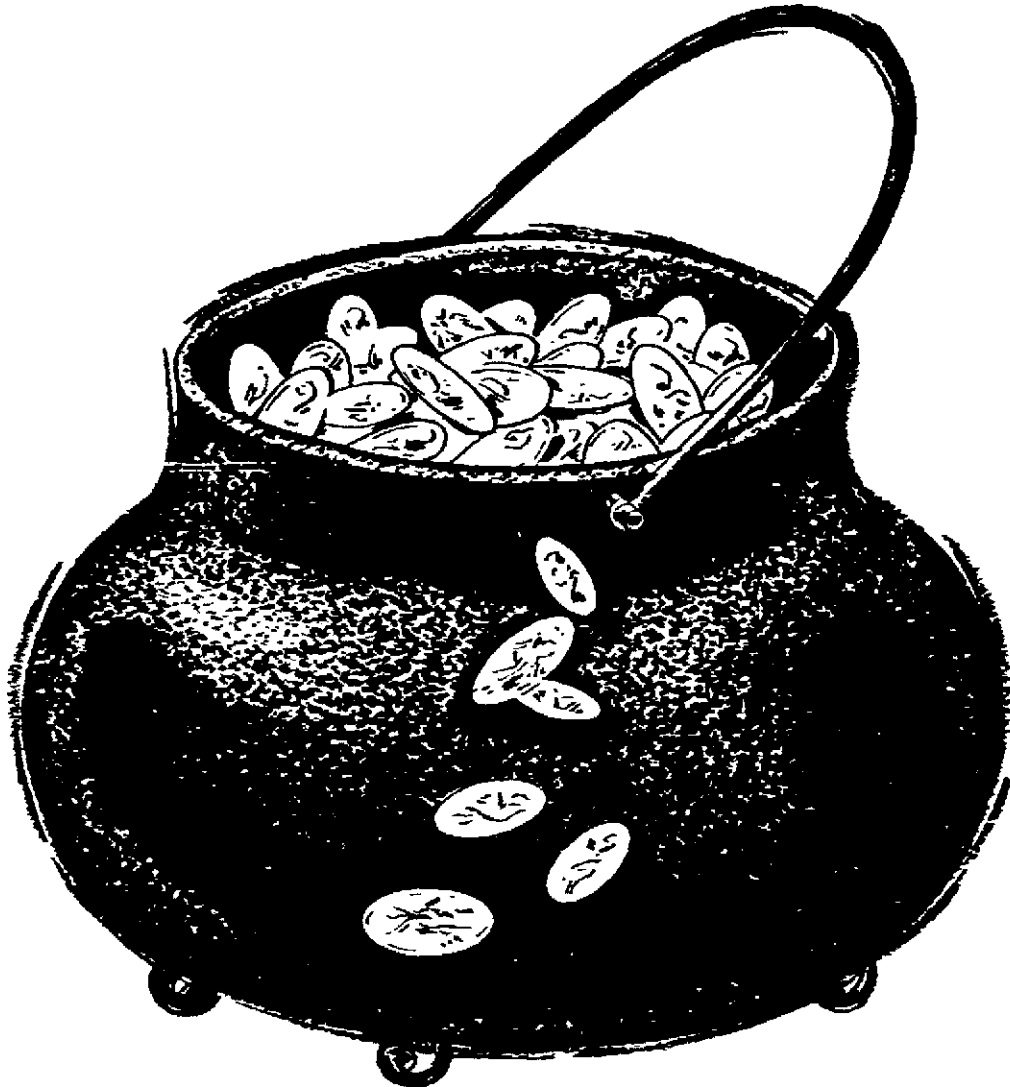

The United States is pressing for action by the next U.N. General Assembly on a proposal by President Johnson for a treaty to guarantee peaceful exploration of the moon and other celestial bodies.

World Cooperation Blagonravov said "Soviet scientists are convinced that rockets and spaceships must serve the cause of peace and the progress of humanity."

"The history of science," he said, "shows that when outstanding scientific discoveries are made in any country, their further development is due to the joint effort of the scientists of the whole world. The conquest of space will be no exception."

Arnold W. Frutkin, assistant administrator for international affairs at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said the U.S. space agency has carried out cooperative space studies made by nationally-known firms prior to the decision to go to Lake Winnebago now for $3 million, and installing equipment which could be used when the city eventually decided to undertake a multi-million dollar pipeline project to Lake Michigan.

Informed Buckley that any delay in the water expansion would have a harmful effect on the city, but at the same time told the mayor if he could get other Fox Valley communities to join in a cooperative Lake Michigan project now, the council would re-evaluate its present project.

Buckley said he wanted 90 days to hold an open forum meeting and get state and national experts here to advise the city on what it should do about its water problems. The mayor said he had not halted the Lake Winnebago project. However, this was disputed when his actions of recent weeks were reviewed.

Buckley "Requested" Delay Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) council president, asked Buckley if the lake project contracts had been terminated from his office, and the mayor explained he had asked Public Works Director Robert Bues to ask the firms to cooperate on a delay. "It was only a request," Buckley said.

Asked by Pointer if the engineering firms had ceased their work on the final construction plans, Buckley said, "I'll have to ask Bues."

"When a department head gets a request from the mayor to do something, he follows orders," Bues said. "I told them (the Chicago engineering firms) to stop work on the project and they wrote back they complied."

The action reportedly took place the second week Buckley had been in office, late in April.

Seek Answers Pointer and Groh also wanted to know if the financial survey the council ordered sometime ago had been canceled, and if so, who had been responsible.

Buckley told the council the question could be answered by Finance Director Henry Schreve and referred it to him. "I canceled the interviews and any further action on orders from the mayor," Schreve told the council.

Groh was critical of the mayor "for bringing in a veto he knew was worthless in the first place, and merely confusing the entire issue with something with no validity."

Mayor Has No Authority And, Ald. John MacDonald (8th) asked the city attorney whether it was within the mayor's authority to "delay or

Park Vandalism Incident to be Investigated

Vandals caused considerable damage early today to a building in Telulah Park. It was one of many park vandalism incidents in Appleton in the past few weeks.

A patrolman discovered today's damage when he was driving through the park about 1:30 a.m. Ten windows were reported broken, window frames were damaged and a door was removed from a rest room.

About 10 young people were ordered out of the park a couple of hours earlier after it was learned they were preparing to go home after a beer party apparently held elsewhere.

Investigation is continuing in the latest incident.

Former City Resident To Conduct Workshop

cause the cessation of contracts. "No, the mayor does not have that authority," Geenen replied. "All contracts were awarded last October and are legal and binding."

At one point, Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) said the veto was no longer an issue and that the council should re-evaluate its previous action in view of public opinion, which he said had been aroused.

Kalata indicated his willingness to grant Buckley a 90-day delay as he requested on the "Winnebago planning, but made clear that "the mayor will have to bear full responsibility for anything that happens, and if he fumbles the ball he will have to suffer the political consequences."

Disagree With Kalata Some aldermen disagreed with Kalata, contending the water project should not be considered a political issue.

"I feel the action this council has taken is the best at this time for the City of Appleton and in no way ties the major's hands in promoting a cooperative Lake Michigan project," Pointer said.

Pointer said most of the facilities to be installed for the Winnebago project would be usable when Appleton decides to go to Lake Michigan. "I am wondering if our industries, which use a considerable amount of water, could afford to pay the rates for water if Appleton went to Michigan alone," Pointer added.

He asked the mayor not to take the council action as a personal affront, but to "proceed now in any orderly fashion."

Action Purrs; Focus Blurs

'Happy-Larry' Review In Style a Bit New

BY JAMES AUER Post-Crescent Sunday Editor

"Love is the proper food of man..."

And man must dine where e'er he can.

This is the lesson, blithe and merry, Of Donagh MacDonagh's "Happy As Larry."

Written in couplets as bold as these

(And better rhymed, to better please),

This Irish farce, with jokes in torrents, Debuted last night on the stage at Lawrence.

Six tailors weave MacDonagh's story. A skein of love, and murder gory

With echoes, if we've rightly heard, Of "Hamlet," "Macbeth" and "Richard III").

It ranges widely in time and space, And also, truly, in style and pace

At first there's fantasy to burn Then melodrama takes its turn.

Followed by earthy folk-romance, And Irish song and Irish dance

We're even taken through the gates Of Hades, where we meet the Fates,

Atropos, Lachesis and Clotho (Who burst into a lively Go-Go)

It makes for a show of constant change — Brittle, erratic, caustic, strange.

At once a mundane and cosmic joke, As staged by the able F. T. Cloak.

The play has some scenes where the action purrs, And others in which the focus blurs,

Much as the author's

At one point he had verbal clashes with Alds John MacDonald (7th) and Clifford Radder (16th) who made it clear they wanted to "straighten the mayor out on a few points"

Buckley had mentioned MacDonald suggested two planks in his (Buckley's) pre-election campaign, he (MacDonald) wrote Buckley a letter "I told you that after examining the issues, I found you to be unknowledgeable and not qualified for the mayor's job." MacDonald told Buckley MacDonald said he had a copy of the letter handy, and Buckley acknowledged receiving it and making a reply.

Radder, who said he belonged to several organizations and attended many national conventions over the past 25 years, told Buckley he took strong exception to his remarks. "I defy you to prove some of these claims you have made," Radder said.

"Now if this is the way the attorneys do it (Buckley is a lawyer) then this is the way they do it," Radder added. "But the organizations I belong to do not see national conventions in that light."

In closing his argument to have the veto of the welfare director's trip upheld, Buckley declared, "And now gentlemen, here are the words you have been waiting for — 'Gentlemen of the jury, I rest my case'"

MacDonald said he thought the council's policy on conventions was a sound one and had been updated and tightened over the years, and just last year. He quoted figures from the finance

Viet Nam Veteran Recalls Impressions for Students

Personal impressions of the about the terrorist tactics war in Viet Nam were described by the Viet Cong. ed to students at Wilson Junior High School this week by Edward C. Loge'n III, a 24-year-old Chicago veteran, who is studying at Lawrence University.

"There really are two wars in Viet Nam," Loge'n said. "The one includes the fighting and and envisioned national and bloody battles every one reads international conventions some about in the paper, the other — day being held in the Orient. the one people don't hear about — is the winning of friends for the American side, known in Army jargon as civic action."

Loge'n cited some examples of civic action. "One man in my division spoke Vietnamese," he said. "Often, after an exhausting day, he would return to teaching English to the villagers. Other U.S. soldiers taught the people simple things — like how to use soap."

Loge'n told the students department that the total cost of sending municipal personnel to out-of-state parleys last year was $2,204.06.

"No matter how little the figure might be, I hate to see one dollar spent," Buckley interjected.

After Buckley lost on his first veto, Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president, complimented the mayor on his stand but said he had to disagree with him because "welfare knows no boundaries because the clients come from all over."

"We are all for having welfare reduced and health standards improved," Pointer said.

"You shouldn't take this as a personal defeat but as a difference of opinion," Pointer told businessmen's Association meeting Buckley, adding that he could at noon next Wednesday in the expect council cooperation on Kimberly Savings and Loan matters for the good of the city. Association building

Democrats Highly Critical of Highway Acceleration Bill

Carley, Nikolay Attack Measure Built 'On False Assumptions'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Democratic gubernatorial candidate David Carley and Assembly majority floor leader Frank Nikolay, D-Abbotsford, heatedly opposed a compromise highway acceleration plan Wednesday, in the face of support for the program from Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles and Democratic Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey.

The confrontation came at a special joint hearing of the legislative highway committees considering the compromise proposal endorsed by the Legislative Council earlier this week. The plan would permit limited bonding through a state building corporation to complete construction interstate highways in the Tomah and La Crosse areas, and would add another one cent tax to gasoline purchases to permit acceleration of state highways.

Counties would be permitted to bond for highway acceleration, under the compromise agreement, and would receive state funds equal to the interest on the bonds issued if the local acceleration programs have been approved by the state highway commission. Half of the gas tax revenues would be used for long-stated support for highway acceleration, and said that if of the funds could be used to this compromise measure is make county interest payments.

Nikolay attacked the plan, saying that it was a "jerrybuilt bill, put together on faulty, responsible method of producing assumptions." No supporter could give an accurate estimate of the measure's cost in interest payments, he charged, both houses of the legislature. Nikolay said that if the highway committees really wished to show concern about the accident rates on Wisconsin highways, they would abandon the bill for an amendment which he has offered that would appropriate $25 million this year for accelerated construction of the Interstate sections from the state's general fund.

He said that no guarantees exist in the compromise bill which would prevent the creation of another state building corporation, to circumvent the constitutional ban on state borrowing. Wisconsin is only a year away from a constitutional amendment allowing such borrowing, he said. A new bonding unit should not be created before that time, he suggested.

No New Corporation

Supporters of the compromise measure, the product of six months work during the interim between legislative sessions and two weeks of fervent compromises moves between confiding legislative forces, maintained that the bill clearly implied that no new corporation would be created.

"If you need it, we'll see that it is spelled out in childishly simple language," Sen. Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto told Nikolay at the end of a tempestuous shouting match across the hearing rooms.

Carley's statement, read to the committees by Assemblyman George Molinaro, D-Kenosha, opposed the concept of long-term state borrowing for any purpose. He said that a $100 million bonding program could cost the state $40 million in interest before all obligations are met. He did support Nikolay's general fund allocation amendment, however.

Knowles' statement was read by his executive assistant Paul Hassett, since the governor was away from town. He repeated his long-stated support for highway acceleration, and said that if of the funds could be used to this compromise measure is make county interest payments.

Navy Buying From Chinese Examined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it is investigating Sen. Ernest Gruening's charge that the Navy has unwittingly done business in Hong Kong with companies controlled by Communist China.

The Alaska Democrat called for tighter control procedures to make sure the armed forces do not violate the Trading With the Enemy Act.

"We are looking into this matter," Asst. Secretary of Defense Paul R. Ignatius told Gruening during a Senate hearing on supply policies Wednesday. Joseph Lippman, staff director of the Senate subcommittee on Foreign Aid Expenditures, went there in March to make sure that discarded military equipment was not finding its way into Red Chinese hands.

Gruening said Lippman learned that the U.S. Navy, which operates a procurement office in Hong Kong, had been making substantial purchases of electronic or other equipment from two firms which were owned or controlled or otherwise affiliated with Communist China.

Ways and Means Okay Committee Jobless Bill Short of Suggestion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has approved a bill to increase the coverage of the unemployment insurance system, but the measure falls short of presidential recommendations.

The bill approved by the committee Wednesday would extend coverage effective Jan. 1, 1969, to 3.5 million additional workers, but the measure falls short of presidential recommendations. The bill would require participating states to enact laws effective in 1969 to pay up to 13 weeks additional benefits during periods of high unemployment.

President Johnson had called for a thorough overhaul of the 30-year-old system. He had asked coverage be extended to 4.65 million workers not now included in the 49.7 million presently covered.

A presidential recommendation that minimum standards be required of the states — such as benefits equal to half the employees' regular wages or the average for the state — was omitted from the committee bill.

It was estimated the committee bill would result in a $272 million increase in the payroll

Civil Service Raises Get Nod

$20 Monthly Boosts Approved by Joint Finance Committee

MADISON (AP) — A pay raise guaranteeing every state civil service employee at least a $20 a month increase has been authorized by the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee.

Further legislative and gubernatorial action on the hike is not needed. The increases approved Wednesday are scheduled to go into effect July 1.

The $4.2 million package boosts to $7.7 million the total pay increases for state employees approved to date by legislators.

Under terms of the pay plan adopted, $3.1 million will be used to revise the salary scales of classified employees. The state Bureau of Personnel, which recommended the raises, said the revisions would help attract persons to state service.

Another $1.1 million will go for a $15 a month across the board increase for state employees. The Wisconsin State Employees Association supported this portion of the plan because it said, persons in state service for several years or more would not be affected by the revisions.

Action on a proposed $2.7 million increase in University of Wisconsin and state universities faculty salaries was delayed at least until next week.

The committee recommended approval of a bill that would increase from $10 million to $20 million the amount available for loans to resident students seeking a higher education. The vote was 11-0.

126 Still Missing in Island Ship Disaster

MANILA (AP) — Ships and planes scanned the Visayan Sea today for 126 people still missing from the steamer Pioneer, Cebu which was overturned Monday by Typhoon Irma.

Another interisland steamer picked up 136 survivors Wednesday, including a 70-year-old man and a 6-year-old boy. Many were in serious condition, suffering from shock and exposure after drifting without food or water for more than 40 hours in the shark-infested Visayan Sea.

Many of their children parked themselves on lawn chairs and bicycles in the street so there was no traffic at all.

State Legislature Hopes to End Spring Session by End of Month

MADISON (AP) — A break in the legislative logjam was beginning to show today and state lawmakers started talking seriously about winding up their spring session by the end of the month.

Two bills given a priority label by Gov. Warren P. Knowles cleared the Senate Wednesday and were on their way to the Assembly.

One of the proposals would make Wisconsin a full partner in the federal Medicare program. The other would establish state inspection of meat and poultry.

The Medicare bill passed unanimously after it was amended to give Milwaukee County a more generous share of the program's federal funds than originally intended.

Additional Aid A task force set up by the governor had decided to split evenly between state and county units the additional $13.5 million Wisconsin will receive in federal aid. A formula for distributing local tax rates for welfare program also was drawn.

Milwaukee County's share under the formula was $5.1 million, but the task force set a $4.4 million limit on the appropriation.

County representatives argued for the additional $700,000. "It's not fair to discriminate against Milwaukee County in every single aid bill," said Sen. Jerry Leonard, a Bay Side Republican.

The amendment passed 19-11 and the measure then zipped through 30-0.

Inspection Standards The meat and poultry inspection law would require $750,000 in state financing. It would set standards for the state's 330 licensed slaughterhouses not covered by federal inspection laws. Animals and fowl dressed and sold directly off farms would be exempt.

Some Wisconsin municipalities now operate their own inspection system. Under the proposal, they could continue if their standards complied with state law.

License fees for slaughterhouses would be raised from $40 to $100 a year and inspections would become effective Jan. 1.

Passage of the two bills prompted one Republican leader to predict that the Legislature could complete its work by May 28 "if we continue to stick to moderate debate."

The Assembly received a proposal that could upset the timetable. It would raise legislators' salaries from $450 a month to $1,250 and make legislating a fulltime job.

Assemblyman Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, introduced the measure as an amendment to a bill increasing university faculty salaries.

Manipulators In Viet Nam Being Persued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department and the Treasury Department are teaming up to go after American civilians who have returned from Viet Nam with small fortunes made through money manipulation in Viet Nam, officials said today.

"These people will be pursued," one defense official told a reporter. He said 28 Americans, most of them past and present employees of U.S. contractors in Viet Nam, have been under investigation since returning to this country. Their files have been forwarded to the Treasury for tax scrutiny, he said.

The Pentagon and the Treasury have begun working closely on means to choke off money profiteering and black marketeering in Viet Nam. A Treasury agent will go to Saigon to survey the situation and an official said the agency may eventually station people there.

Over-all, it was learned, 70 U.S. civilians have been the subject of probes. One American netted about $42,000 in money speculation, officials said, and several pocketed profits in the $16,000-$18,000 range.

War Encourages Dollar Drain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Viet Nam war has virtually ended any chance of halting the drain of American dollars overseas this year.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler indicated this much Wednesday. Although ending the deficit in the U.S. balance of payments in 1966 is still the goal, he said, the administration may have to settle for something less.

"It may well be that we will have to settle for an interim objective of equilibrium exclusive of the costs of Viet Nam," Fowler added.

"Let's Talk Safety in Cars!" RAMBLERS for '66 Have It!

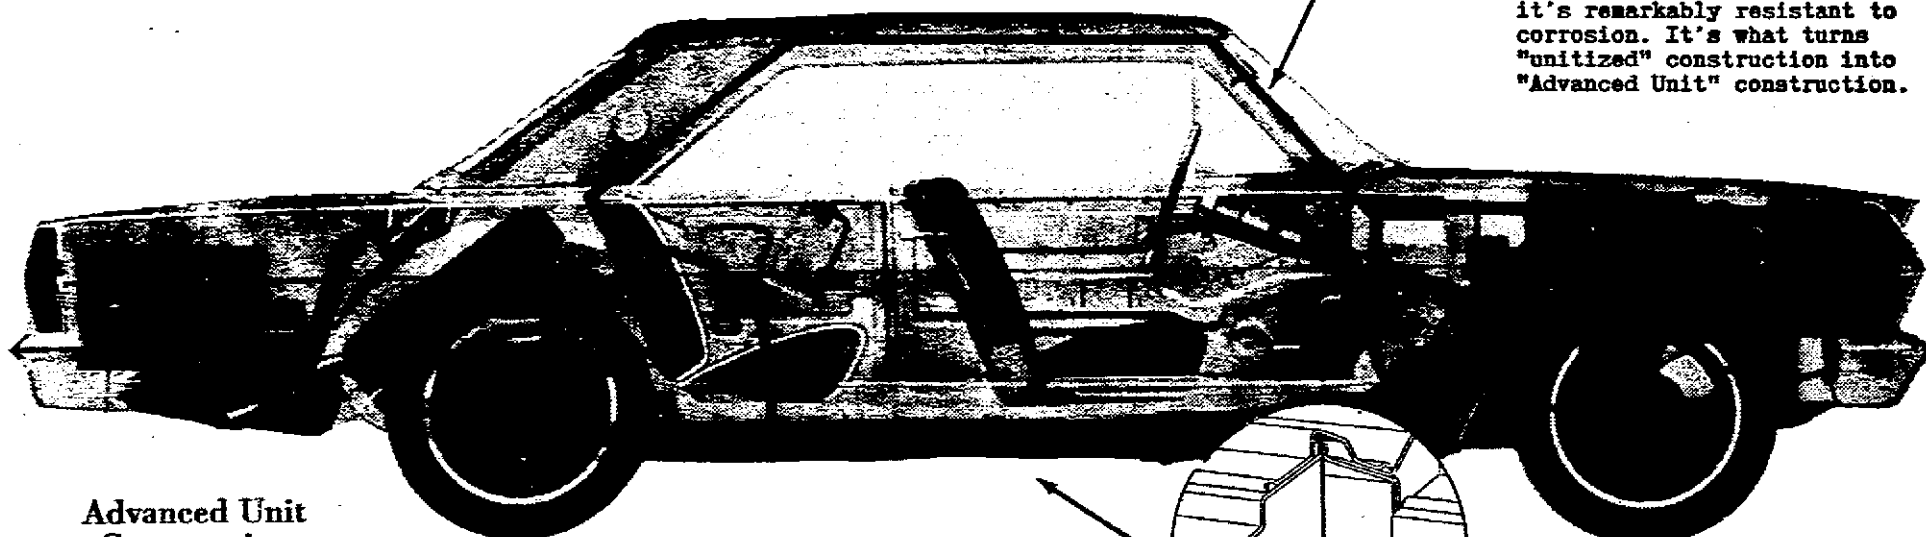

Unitized Construction

With this more modern type of construction there is no separate body and frame. Rather, these two functional parts are designed and constructed as one unitized, all-welded strength structure. Its disadvantages are that it is relatively expensive to make a major body change . . . and, unless carefully designed, unitized construction can transmit road noise into the passenger compartment.

Its major advantages, of course, include its tremendous strength, solid feel, and extra durability . . . all achieved with a minimum of dead weight.

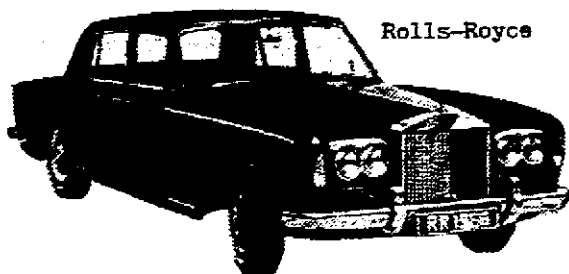

This one-piece Uniside (sedan type shown) is an added unitized construction refinement found only on American Motors/Rambler cars. It consists of inner and outer one-piece stampings welded into a box-section side member . . . stronger than the pieced-together stampings used on other unitized construction cars. And since the outer section is galvanized all over, it's remarkably resistant to corrosion. It's what turns "unitized" construction into "Advanced Unit" construction.

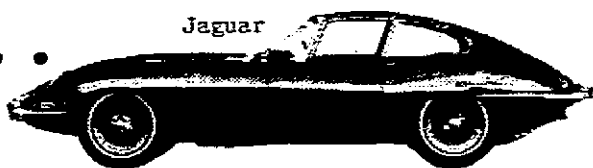

Advanced Unit Construction

(On All American Motors Cars)

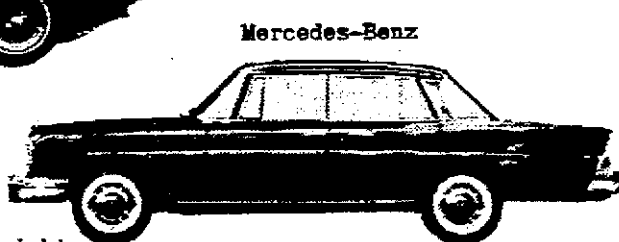

Note, Also, Which Other Cars Use This Same Method of Construction . . .

Rolls-Royce

Jaguar

Mercedes-Benz

Did you know that each of these fine (and costly) European luxury cars also uses unitized construction? Why? For the same reason that all jet airliners use it: Maximum strength and durability . . . with minimum dead weight.

Separate-Body-to-Frame Construction

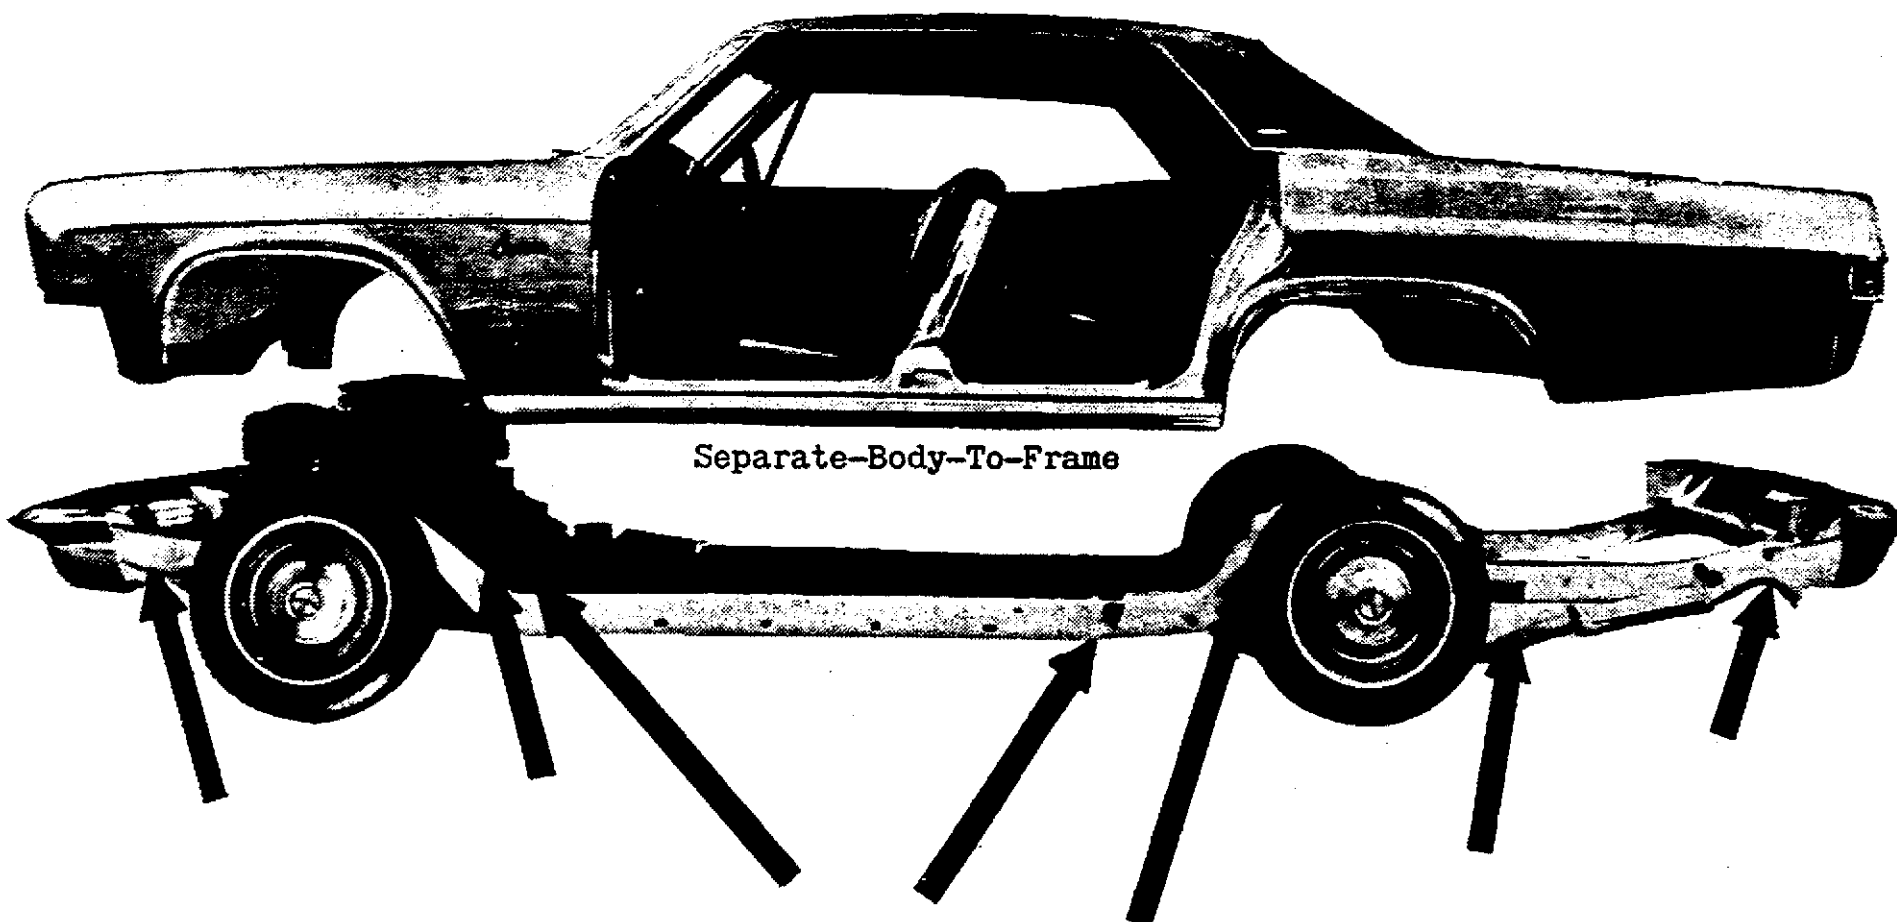

In this, the body is bolted to the frame at a number of points. The advantages are primarily in manufacture. Major body styling changes are less costly since the old frame can usually be reused. Also, the engineers can add or remove rubber cushions at each bolted connection to help control riding harshness and noise.

A major disadvantage is that the bolted connections have a tendency to "give" that reduces overall stiffness of the structure. Also, this type of construction must be relatively heavy in order to provide an acceptable amount of strength.

Chevelle, Impala, Buick Special, Olds F-85, Tempest and Ford Galaxie all use separate-body-to-frame construction.

Another inherent disadvantage of this bolted-together kind of construction stems from the tendency for nuts to loosen, bolt-holes to elongate, rubber cushions to deteriorate. Result: Separate-body-to-frame cars tend to loosen up and develop shakes and rattles as they age.

Typical Rambler Ceramic-Armored Muffler

(Part of ceramic-protected exhaust system including exhaust and tailpipes)

Fortunately, there is an answer to the annoying and costly problem of premature exhaust system failure. It's a unique method of bonding a glass-like ceramic surface to the vulnerable steel parts of the exhaust system, inside and out!

Ceramic inner surface
Steel Shell
Ceramic outer surface
Asbestos: heat & sound insulation

Aluminized Steel: impact resistance

Why Ceramic?

Ever see a rusted out China doll? Of course not. Ceramic (China) does not react chemically with the moisture and acids found in exhaust gases, either.

No part of a car is exposed to more severely corrosive conditions than its exhaust system. Today's hotter, more powerful engines and road de-icing chemicals have further aggravated the problem so that the usual exhaust system corrosion-prevention methods (use of zinc or aluminum coatings) have not solved the problem. Result: Exhaust system replacements are sometimes required at an early date . . . at a cost to the owner, ranging up to $50 or more!

Which cars have longer-lasting ceramic-protected exhaust systems?

All American Motors/Rambler Cars!

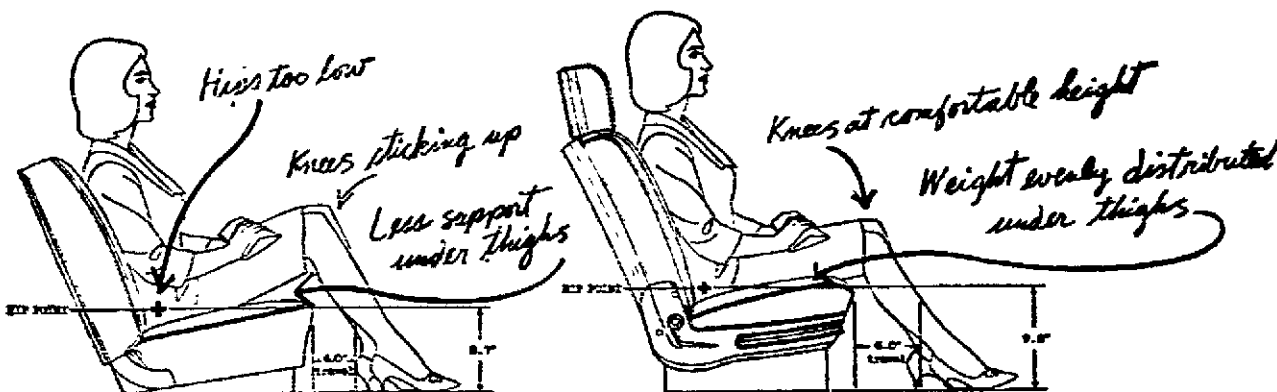

Which cars have less-effectively-protected exhaust systems?

All General Motors Cars,  all Ford Motor Cars,  all Chrysler Corporation Cars,

Which kind of exhaust system do you want on your new car?

A Closer Look at Seating Comfort and Luxury

It's hard to imagine any owner who's going to feel satisfied with his new car . . . if it isn't comfortable. Long hours in traffic or on the highway cause enough fatigue and strain, by themselves, without the added aggravation of inadequately designed seats. X-Ray invites you to compare three of the most important factors in seating comfort: Front seating height, front seat travel and seat construction.

Too-low seating height in this Buick Special can cause passenger fatigue because almost all of the weight is concentrated on the base of the spine with minimal support under the thighs. Yet, some front seats are even lower than the example shown here.

This Ambassador seat (like all seats in American Motors/Rambler cars) provides the highest and most comfortable seating in its class. Note how the passenger's weight is now more evenly distributed over her thighs, not just on the base of the spine. Knees are at a more comfortable height. Which seat would you prefer to spend the next thousand hours of travel in?

These zig-zag seat springs are typical of those found in GM, Ford Motor and Chrysler Corporation seats. Note that the two points of applied pressure actually pull the springs into a series of straight lines. But your lower body consists of curves, not straight lines. Result: Some areas of your body receive too much support, other areas not enough from zig-zag seat springs.

These coil spring seats are used on all AM cars (and some Cadillac models). Coils, unlike zig-zag springs, have an individual action that provides even, restful support under the entire lower body. Same relaxing coil spring support in the seat-backs, too. Chances are that, tonight, you'll go to sleep on a coil spring mattress!

LET'S LOOK AT BRAKE RELIABILITY

What would happen if your brake line should rupture while your car were in motion and you had to stop? A Rambler would STOP because of Double-Safety-Brake-System which retains full braking action in both FRONT wheel brakes. Other cars would be unable to stop because ruptured brake line causes complete loss of hydraulic braking at ALL 4 WHEELS. Double-Safety-Brake-System is standard on Rambler (only Cadillac of U.S.-built cars has it).

Reason Behind Trade Boost Causes Wonder

Reason Behind Trade Boost Causes Wonder

Who has been a force of unprecedented power behind the skyrocketing volume of trading in stocks in recent months and the wild price fluctuations in today's great glamour stocks?

Not you, the little individual speculators. Not you, the large individual investor and trader.

The extraordinary force has been the institutional investor the big-time professional manager of the big-time funds who traditionally buys established blue chip stocks for the long run and who rarely has been thought of in terms of frequent trading. This is a development of enormous importance and implications. Of course, the little fellow has been gambling on a mounting scale in the glamour issues and low-priced stocks. The reason the major stock exchanges have tightened the margin rules on small accounts is to prevent a blow-off in this type of trading. Unquestionably, there has been a step-up in trading for quick profits by large individual speculators. The reason the exchanges have imposed "sophisticated" curbs on in-and-out trading is the evidence of this sophisticated speculation.

"Sophisticated" Curbs Dwarfing these developments, though has been the extent to which institutional investors have accelerated their trading and have been concentrating on the glamour stocks.

Last year, "The Exchange" magazine disclosed today, the turnover rate on the New York Stock Exchange was 16 per cent, meaning 16 per cent of all shares listed on the Big Board were traded.

But last year, the turnover rate for mutual funds was a full 25 per cent, meaning 25 per cent of all shares held by mutual funds were traded.

Turnover Rates Soared In April 1966, the turnover rate for the NYSE was up to 23 per cent. There is no doubt that the turnover rate for mutual funds also soared. At the same time, studies of the stocks held by mutual funds indicate that an increasing number of the funds have been buying big blocks of the favorite, high-flying glamour issues.

Why? A first reason is that the funds have been under rising pressures to chalk up records

Voting Machines To be Leased By Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee's Common Council gave final approval Tuesday to acquiring 1,025 voting machines by September.

Milwaukee had been the largest city in the nation still using paper ballots, officials said.

The aldermen voted 15-4 to obtain the machines in time to meet a state-imposed deadline of Sept. 6, the date of the fall primary.

The fifteen votes was the minimum need for approval. The measure required a three-fourths majority since it would appropriate money from the city's contingency fund.

Mayor Henry Maier, who supported use of punch card devices rather than standard vote machines, has authority to veto the measure. He was out of the city and could not be reached for immediate comment.

Teens Resent Adults Taking Over Dancing, Clothes of Youth

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Are adults copycats, following the young generation instead of trying to lead it?

Dr. Emanuel Demby, president of Motivational Programmers, Inc., says:

"From time immemorial, young people have carved out individualistic group patterns, behavior that made them like teen-agers and separated them from us."

"Then the tide began to turn." Adults took over rock 'n' roll music; they adopted the Twist, Frug and Watusi; they sliced hems above the knee; they even talked about a sexual revolution almost as much as the young-sters.

"Every step that youth took to differentiate itself was followed by a copycat action on the part of adult society," Demby told a recent scientific meeting.

The one exception: smoking pot — marijuana — and using psychedelics.

YOUTH STAND ALONE

"It is almost as though this is the only no man's land between youth and adult society. Thus, it is not surprising that more and more young people are taking a stand that pot, LSD and all the rest are not only not harmful, but helpful to their growth. Adult society, anxious and fearful, accuses youth of becoming alienated and degraded by dependence on drugs."

In depth interviews with young people, Demby said, "We found them almost thanking God that in at least one area of human activity adults were not copying youth."

Demby, who is senior research consultant to the College of Business Administration of Fairleigh Dickinson University, said one youth told him: "Adults are the enemy."

Another said: "We're taking over sooner or later. We have to. We're the active generation. an 'After Dance Frolic' Sunday Yours is the generation of be-party. You started out idealistic. You wound up commercial." Refreshments

"The styles we wear are sweet and tough. We don't want our parents to copy what we wear. We can get away with it. It's terrible to see a 50-year-old woman using powder and make-up to look young enough for our styles. Mothers are too old to wear what we wear."

Youth, said Demby, sees adult society as a pitiable, alienated, replaceable segment of the world's population.

Demby sees youth as the idealistic generation — a very happy generation "although they see themselves as tragic. My own prediction is that they're going to be one of the great generations of all time. They have a tremendous spiritual sense they want to express — and will. They will be good parents, better than we."

As for the so-called sexual revolution, Demby has found from his interviews that:

1. There probably is more sleeping-around in the United States among the teen-agers than in the past.

2. The girls who do sleep around are known as such by the boys — and their marital chances are decidedly reduced unless they finally settle down and go steady with one boy.

3. Young people are romantic, and only among a very small minority is there an expressed desire to separate sex from love.

4. Teen-agers resent any sleeping around on the part of their parents. In fact, when they find that adults are promiscuous, they feel personally threatened. First, because they have tremendous need to believe that adults are more stable than they are: second, because this sexual revolution they take as their personal property, bitterly resenting incursions by adults.

5. The chances are — there is more talk than fire.

"Put Parents On"

Demby was fascinated to discover that one of the basic things with teen-agers is putting their parents on — making them think things that aren't so. One youngster explained to him: "We tell parents things just to find out what it takes to shock them. The Beatles are a big put-on. We don't really care. But it's the biggest put-on of them all. Nobody cares except the parents. They think it's real. And the kids who are too young, think it's real too. Pop art is one great big put-on."

Some of the practical implications of his study, said Demby. Black humor and the humor of the put-on should have a great future.

Until adults discover the thrill of being adults, the models used in advertising will continue to become younger and younger. A model who looks like a 21-year-old will be ready for obscurity.

Package design will move more toward sensual materials and sexy forms.

New frames of reference will be needed to measure public opinion attitudes of youth groups, to know how much is part of a put-on.

Fewer young people will want to become physicists or have anything to do with the bomb and development of weapons.

The future for products and services that promise relief from anxiety will be greater than ever.

High School Pregnancies Increasing in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Pregnancies among school age girls appear to be increasing in recent years in the city of Milwaukee, but suburban school officials said the problem is almost non-existent.

"The problem probably is growing," said Theodore J. Kuemmerlein, executive director of pupil personnel for the Milwaukee School Board, "but we have no way of knowing for sure because we have better ways of checking into absences than in the past."

Out of 125,000 students in all grades in the Milwaukee public school system, there were 206 reported pregnancies in 1965. Two years earlier there were 156, and that was a 28 per cent increase over the previous year.

Keep Records

"I've been in this job 20 years and when I started we were just beginning to make inquiries about this problem," said Kuemmerlein. "Most school systems didn't even talk about the subject then. In the last few years we've been keeping records of school girl pregnancies."

No Problem in Wauwatosa

John Fochs, superintendent of schools in Wauwatosa, was asked if that large suburb had any school girl pregnancies.

"We haven't heard of any this year," he said. "And there's a girl needs to drop out of school."

probably been fewer in recent years than in the past."

Fochs said school administrators had no way of knowing if birth control pills played a part in keeping pregnancies down.

If a girl does become pregnant while in a Wauwatosa school she is provided instruction at home to keep her current in school subjects and is accepted back in school after the baby is born.

Of the 206 girls known to give birth to babies in the Milwaukee school system last year, 128 returned to the city schools; 48 enrolled in Vocational School; 25 remained excused from school on a temporary basis at the request of their parents; two were excused on medical grounds from returning to school; two were over 18 and did not have to return to school, and one entered the Job Corps.

"There could be another 100 girls who dropped out because of pregnancy last year but we don't know about it," said Kuemmerlein. "The only excuse self, stands by. It's kind of pathetic."

The students come in here with their babies for consultations," said Kuemmerlein. "It's often a case of a young child holding a still younger child while the baby's grandmother, don't know about it."

"The only excuse self, stands by. It's kind of pathetic."

The Ailing House Chalk, Gas Removes Tree Stain

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Some time ago, when it was raining, we had a load of eucalyptus and oak delivered. The driver piled it on the cement walk under the eaves. There is now a horrible black stain where the wood was lying. I'd appreciate knowing if there is any way to remove this stain.

A: Make a poultice of powdered chalk or fuller's earth and half-and-half commercial wood bleach and high test gasoline. and cover the stain good and thick. To retard evaporation, place plastic sheeting or a sheet of metal over the paste. The bleach will work on the pigment part of the stain, and the gasoline will loosen the embedded eucalyptus oil, and the powder will blot it up. When dry, replace with fresh paste. Several treatments will undoubtedly be needed.

Q: My heavily carved teak table badly needs refinishing. I believe I could do the job, except for cleaning the old finish out of the carved sections. Can you recommend a not-too-difficult method?

Outdoor Look

If you do the "homework" neither overdone, nor yet already assigned in this series. done. To exemplify with a few suggestions:

Before setting out to swim or sun, tidy your hair and aim to keep it under control in spite of wind and water. A head-covering, not rollers, is the answer to wind.

A zingy scarf or hat serves the purpose and is fun, too. To protect the hair from water, a cap is essential. Tinted hair must be protected from water. all hair should be shielded from sun. If overexposed, locks sizzle, burn and turn to straw.

Make-up is merely a matter of moisturized sun lotion and a film of lipstick. For the needy, light applications of waterproof powder base and mascara are not inappropriate. But simplicity is the byword. A fresh, healthy look is The Look.

Your Problems

Quiet Teen Seeks Secret of Being Remembered by Chums

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 14-year-old girl who is a miserable blond of nothing. Nobody remembers my name. I know some very nice boys who have been introduced to me three or four times and they still don't know me from a load of corn.

I am very quiet because I can't think of anything interesting to say. How I envy the girls who have the knack of coming up with just the right remark. I feel nervous when I try to smile or laugh, as if I am forcing myself to be part of the group when I really feel way out of everything.

My trouble isn't looks. I am not too fat or too thin, or too short or too tall. My skin and hair and eyes are nice and a teacher once told me I have a lovely smile. I am neat and have good manners and I don't talk about people behind their backs.

Please tell me how to keep from going through life being a nothing that nobody remembers.

— Miss Dull
Dear Miss: Quiet people, such as you, should not try to be what they are not. Even though you may envy the girl who comes on like Gang-busters, this is not your style and it never will be.

one at a time. A girl who shows an interest in others — asks questions, encourages them to talk, and listens in a genuinely interested fashion — will not be forgotten.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For two years I have been going to a dental school to get my teeth fixed. The cost for all the work was only $200 since the school charges only for the materials.

The same student has worked on my teeth from the very first. He has been just wonderful to me. He graduates in June and I will be finished at the same time. I would like to give him a check for $50 to show my appreciation. My husband thought this was a very good idea.

My in-laws, however, are against it. They feel this would be much too personal a gesture and the young man's wife might not like it. They suggested that I make a donation to the dental school instead.

Do you think they are right? I don't want to embarrass anybody. Thanks for your advice. I'm going to take it. — Mrs. I. M. Thankful

Dear Mrs.: Since you feel the young man was especially kind to you I feel that a gift to him is indeed appropriate. Give him a $50 gift certificate and let him treat himself (or his wife) to something special. (Copyright, 1966)

Finesses Not Always Helpful

For a few months visitors to my office had to push through pickets waving signs that read "Unfair to Finesses." No more. I sent them off to Larry Rosler and Bill Root, who constructed the hands for the recent Inter-collegiate Championships.

When today's hand was played, several thousand college students took a finesse and found themselves on the minus side of the ledger.

Our unlucky heroes won the first or second trick with the king of hearts and led a spade to try a finesse with dummy's jack. This lost to the queen, and back came a heart.

The spades failed to break, and South could get only two spades, two hearts, two diamonds and one club. Down two. A few students got an eighth trick in clubs, but this was no great victory when the contract called for nine tricks.

Ignore Finesse
The correct play is to ignore the spade finesse. South wins Y. 10017. It covers bidding the second heart and plays a low spade from each hand.

allowing the opponents to win the trick any way they like.

South wins the next heart trick and cashes the top spades. When the queen of spades falls, declarer gets four spade tricks — enough to assure the contract.

The point is that South needs four spade tricks, not just three. A finesse will bring in four tricks only if the six missing spades break 3-3. The correct play produces four spade tricks, not only when the spades are 3-3 but also when either opponent has Q-x of spades.

You don't have to be a mathematician to know that the whole is greater than any of its parts. All 3-3 breaks together with certain 4-2 breaks must add up to more than just the 3-3 breaks alone.

Large Bill Aimed at Slowing Northeast UW

Measure Requires Legislative Consent Before Changing Building Priorities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A bill which could be used, if enacted into law, to slow the development of the northeast Wisconsin branch campus of the University of Wisconsin has been introduced in the state Senate.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Gerald Lorge (R-Bear Creek) would prohibit the State Building Commission from changing building priorities to speed certain building projects without express legislative consent.

It was reported out of the Senate Labor, Insurance, Taxation and Banking Committee, chaired by Lorge, Wednesday, bearing a 5-0 recommendation for passage from committee members.

Prevent Shifting
The bill could be used to prevent the shifting of State Building Commission funds from priority projects for use in the construction of a branch campus at the Shorewood site of the UW, according to some opponents of the location on the northeast side of Green Bay.

It would not, however, prevent the use of $200,000 already appropriated for the development and planning of the campus.

Critics of the measure say

Rusk, Dulles Handle
State Job Differently,
But Both Clobbered

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The way the two secretaries of state handled their job was completely different but both got clobbered: the colorful actor, John Foster Dulles, and the quiet technician, Dean Rusk.

Criticism just took longer catching up with Rusk. If the Vietnamese war ends in American disaster, Rusk may wind up being the punching bag, a typical fate for someone when a nation feels frustrated.

Dulles was foreign policy during most of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's two terms. He was flamboyant, used exaggerated language to make a point, was go-go-go, and until his death in 1959 talked with full authority.

Eisenhower liked it that way. There was a big switch under President John F. Kennedy who made it clear from the start he was foreign policy and would shape it and state it. Rusk was his adviser and foreign policy technician.

No Unkind Words
This seemed to suit the reticent Rusk. While Dulles had been lambasted endlessly for statements he made, there was hardly an unkind word for Rusk in Kennedy's time. He preferred being an echo, not a spokesman.

The result: he seldom said anything new, leaving that to Kennedy. And when he did talk in speeches or at news conferences his words were big bunches of generalities that actually put some people to sleep.

It might have been like that to this day for Rusk, a tireless and dedicated worker behind the scenes but publicly colorless. If there hadn't been a change in presidents and circumstances.

War Burst
President Johnson, expressing the highest confidence in Rusk, has used him far more than Kennedy did to state the administration's positions, policies and dilemmas. But the smoldering Vietnamese war burst into flames under Johnson.

As the war goes on — grim, often stumbling, repeatedly chaotic, with criticism here at home increasing — the public gets more puzzled, a problem Johnson might have tried to straighten out in a very simple way.

He could have gone on nationwide television to give the people a full-length explanation and at the same time answer the critics. Instead, he has simply mentioned the war in a number of unconnected speeches.

Unclear Explanation
They gave neither a full nor a coherent picture and the President has relied much on Rusk to do the explaining for him, particularly in testimony before congressional committees.

But Rusk's efforts were forever getting scrambled by congressional questions and rebuttals. So to this day the administration has not given the kind of coherent explanation which might be a useful public service.

While Rusk is saying more than he did under Kennedy, he still gives the picture of being a foreign policy technician and adviser, which means, despite his dedication, he has not been a forceful figure.

Nevertheless, Rusk is being criticized a bit at a time as the Vietnamese war gets more confusing, although no one outside the Johnson administration can say very well how much of Rusk's advice Johnson has accepted.

But if the American effort in Viet Nam collapses because of the internal chaos there, the search for scapegoats will begin here. Johnson will get blamed, of course, but he's been elected to a four-year term.

But his advisers will get blamed, too. And, since Rusk is in the role of the No. 1 adviser, he may get more than his share and wind up the No. 1 casualty, although he seems to have made few if any personal enemies.

Damaged Greek Ship Abandoned by Crew In North Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP)—The captain and 26 crewmen abandoned the Greek freighter Aurora Wednesday night in the North Atlantic. They were picked up by the British freighters Scilla and Overseas Courier.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the freighter, which was en route from Hamburg, Germany to Montreal, without cargo, was in imminent danger of sinking with a damaged hull and 22 feet of water in two holds.

The vessel was last reported afloat 480 miles east of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

DAILY NEWSPAPERS
are a GROWTH BUSINESS

It takes more people to publish today's newspapers

*Any growing business needs more people...
Newspapers are one of the fastest growing businesses in the U.S. today!*

An average of 20,000 men and women now enter America's burgeoning labor force each week. From 1947 through 1963 the nation's economy absorbed 11 million additional workers. Total employment increased 19% in 16 years.

During the same years employment in the daily newspaper business increased by 33% ... to more than 329,000. By comparison, employment in all manufacturing industries rose by 9%, in retail and wholesale trade, 29%. Employment in the transportation industries dropped by 5% and in mining by 33%.

Increase in staff is but one reflection of the overall growth of daily newspapers since the end of World War Two. This growth is also reflected by marked increases in every other significant index—circulation, news content, advertising, newsprint consumption...and all are still growing.

Newspapers are growing for one reason: Only the newspaper covers the news fully and in depth. There is no substitute for the daily newspaper.

For more information on why daily newspapers are a growth business, write for a free copy of the new booklet, "The Growth of the American Daily Newspaper," an economic analysis published by the University of Wisconsin.

Wolf Planning Commission To Administer FHA Grants

Aid in Developing Water, Sewer Utilities in Small Communities

The Wolf River Basin Region will be treated individually, Morris said. The third type of FHA grant which will be available for Wolf River communities is for development grants for counties and communities in a new aid program under the auspices of the Farmers Home Administration (FHA).

William Morris, executive director of the Commission, said Wednesday that a meeting was held in Madison Monday with Ralph Monroe, chief of community services, and Robert Dudgeon, engineer, both connected with the FHA.

"This will mean a great deal of federal help in our area, assisting some of the counties from the Economic Development Administration on these projects," Morris said.

Amount of Grants
According to Monroe, Forest and Menominee counties are planning program for sewer and water needs, and other counties can receive from 50 to 90 per cent participation, as they are financially able according to their economic status.

There will be three types of FHA grants in the new program, Morris said. The first is a planning advance, which would be used to set up the program for a feasibility study.

The second are the regular planning grants. These would not necessarily be used to show the need for water and sewer work, but which would determine what is done and what the program should be done. There are no aid to the smaller communities alike, and each will tie in this area.

Arizona Man, 5-Year-Old Die on Roads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of an Arizona motorist has brought Wisconsin's 1966 highway toll to 294, compared with 302 on this date a year ago.

John E. Rossing, 24, of Mesa, Ariz., was injured fatally Wednesday night when his car struck a rock ledge along Highway 130 near Lone Rock just after crossing the bridge over the Wisconsin River. He was alone in the vehicle. Rossing and his wife had been visiting relatives in the Lone Rock area.

Five-year-old Kenneth Robert Umland Jr. of Watertown was injured fatally Wednesday when struck by a car on a Watertown street. Police said the boy darted from the curb in playful pursuit of a piece of paper being whipped about by the wind.

Monroe requested that at least one application be handed in to his office by June 10 for a planning program for sewer and water needs, and other counties can receive from 50 to 90 per cent participation, as they are financially able according to their economic status.

Special Meeting
Gordon A. Bubolz, commission chairman, has called a special meeting of the commission members for 1 p.m. Monday at the Home Mutual Building auditorium. The commission must vote its approval of the fact that the FHA has designated the agency to implement this program on water and sewer study.

The commission authorities will be in charge of dispersing the money and what the program should be done. There are no aid to the smaller communities alike, and each will tie in this area.

The commission also announced Tuesday that Clyde J. Fitzpatrick was not re-elected president because of health reasons.

The board also elected Larry S. Provo, vice president of finance, to the position of executive vice president.

McNamara Believes All Youth Should Serve

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is thinking of a voluntary effort — not compulsion — in his proposal that every young American devote two years to service either in uniform, the Peace Corps or some other help-mankind program.

Associates of the defense chief said today after McNamara returned from Montreal, where he offered his proposal in a wide-ranging speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Sources familiar with McNamara's thinking said the secretary envisions both young men and young women taking part.

Officials cautioned against jumping to any conclusions that the Pentagon would send implementing legislation to Congress.

McNamara's associates also sought to draw attention to other facets of the speech. These included the secretary's call for "building bridges" toward Red China and his emphasis on international peacekeeping as a hoped-for pattern of the future.

Fond du Lac Man Fined $125 on 2 Traffic Charges

JACK C. LIEBERT, 26, 186 Welsh St., Fond du Lac, was fined a total of $125 plus costs after he was found guilty in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 of operating a motor vehicle after his driver's license was revoked and unlawful use of license plates.

Liebert pleaded no contest to both counts and was found guilty by County Judge Gustave J. Keller. The Fond du Lac man also was sentenced to five days on the operating after revocation count.

He was arrested by state police April 16 on U. S. 41 in the Town of Vandenberg.

$20 Million Yearly Income From Betting Foreseen by Breeder

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin would gain revenue of up to $20 million a year if pari-mutuel horse race betting were legalized, an official of the Wisconsin Breeders and Harness Horse Association said Tuesday night.

Lee D. Person of Neillsville, a director of the organization, told a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in suburban West Allis that there "were no facts or figures to back claims that the legalized betting would attract undesirables or the syndicate."

Person said he favored regulation of racing by a three-man commission appointed by the governor and approved by the Legislature.

Speak to and for Man, Religious Groups Told

Roy Danish, Television Director, Says Program Purpose, Need Must Be Defined

BY JINGO Religious leaders should think of broadcasting "not as a loose net through which your quarry may slip away, but rather as a shepherd's crook with which to gather your flock," Roy Danish, director of the Television Information Office, told the Catholic Broadcasters Association and the National Catholic Welfare Conference at San Francisco recently.

Danish also proposed that those responsible for religious programs "go into the market place and find out whether you are hitting the target as often and as hard as you must," using the tools of research.

"A mass television for your audience will certainly be welcomed by shut-ins or others who cannot come to church," he said. "Discussions can be instructive. Dramatic presentations can provoke viewers to healthy and rewarding thought. But before you use any one of these many forms, I propose you recognize the absolute need to be clear in your mind about what it is that you are trying to accomplish — and with whom."

Citing data in a thesis on religious radio programs in the Los Angeles area, Danish noted that 64 per cent of the programs were intended for persons of any or all religions; 35 per cent, that religious leaders should be aimed at people of all faiths; and 86 per cent took account of differences in which would take as their subject matter a popular tele-

"Far too much religious vision program broadcast within broadcasting, it seems to me, the previous week. "You could talk to the outsider or the deal with the spiritual implications, good or bad, which you found in the material," Danish said. "Ask the question, 'Does this program present a true picture of man or the human condition?'"

Data gathered by TIO in a survey of television programs dealing with religion indicated that only 29 of approximately 600 programs reported on were specifically intended for children. "Not only were producers; freely translated as "speak not failing to take into account the from the seat of authority, but realities of program selection; rather for the man," Danish by an audience," he said, "but concluded, "For no communica- they were inclined toward wish- tion can hope to accomplish its desired ends if it fails to take full thinking."

"Broadcasters are aware that realistic account of the needs, for a program of any kind to the desires and the aspirations achieve its objectives — of those to whom it is address- whether they be to entertain, to ed."

Jack Paar Featured in TV Satire

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8:30 (Channels 4-5) — A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the White House returns Jack Paar in a special which needles and ribs American politicians. Paar, after a year away from television, seldom has been in better form as he uses brightly edited newsreel clips and performers like Elliott Reid, Tom Lehrer and the Plaza 9 satirists to roast politicians on Teddy Roosevelt to L.B.J. The setting is pop artish and highlights include Tony Bennett's recording of "If I ruled the World" being mouthed by Washington bigwigs; film clips of Sen. Robert Kennedy being chided by his mother and ones showing Adlai Stevenson's "elegance and wit." (Color)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — In "The Aaron Burr Story," Daniel Boone takes liberties with historical fact and turns out a dandy adventure. Burr (Leif Erickson), charming, gentlemanly, literate, comes to Boonesborough and tries to convince Daniel (Fess Parker) to be his guide on a "pleasure trip" through dangerous Indian territory to the Cumberland Gap. (R-Color)

7-7:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Gidget pokes a bit of sly fun at rock 'n' roll singing groups when cute Sally Field becomes the tambourine-clanging front girl for a group of "cleanies," who are discovered for a talent contest on TV. (R-Color)

8-8:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Endora the witch is fast becoming the model for the perfect, interfering stereotyped mother-in-law on Bewitched. In "The Catnapper," she decides that a nice, attractive female client of Darren's is trying to break up Samantha's home, so Endora changes the woman into a cat.

8:30-9 (Channels 4-5) — Mickey Finn's is in boisterous good humor with guest Roberta Sherwood and her son. (Color)

8-10:15 (Channels 2-7-12) — "Parrish" on The Thursday Night Movie is a push drama about plush emotions going wild in a plush Connecticut tobacco valley. Troy Donahue plays a sincere young man whose mother is Claudette Colbert. Troy is in pursuit of Diane McBain, and Karl Malden is in pursuit of Claudette. Connie Stevens is in pursuit of any man available. (R-Color)

9-10 (Channels 4-5) — The Dean Martin Show has an interesting session with guests Gisele MacKenzie, Shari Lewis, Jack Carter, Tommy Sands, the McGuire Sisters and the Tren- iers. (R-Color)

9-10 (Channels 11-6-9) — "Epitaph for a Hero" on The Baron offers little new in the jewel- robbery business. John Mann- ington has to help in a theft (against his will, of course) which means trouble for a man who once saved his life.

LBJ Asks Congress For Art Gallery WASHINGTON (AP) — Presi- dent Johnson has asked Con- gress for legislation to build a gallery in Washington to house 6,300 contemporary paintings, drawings and sculptures given the government by Joseph H. Hirshhorn.

Johnson accepted the collec- tion, valued at upwards of $50 million, "with the deepest gra- titude of the American people."

Hirshhorn, who lives in Greenwich, Conn., began ac- quiring art works as a youth in his native Brooklyn, N.Y., and built up the collection as he ac- quired wealth, reportedly most- ly in Canadian uranium.

Use Paper, Wood and Spools To Make Merry-Go-Round

BY CAPPY DICK
The miniature merry-go-round in Figure 3 is easy to make from wood, thread spools, it from falling from the card-corrugated cardboard and con-board base if you lift up the struction paper. Figure 1 shows how most of the parts are to be assembled. Figure 2 shows how the figures are to be glued to make horses and riders from construction paper to be glued to the merry-go-round platform. Figure 3 shows how to spin the merry-go-round.

Make paper horses

The wood base in Figure 1 is to be cut from a piece of wood one half inch thick and six inches square. This will provide sufficient weight for the merry-go-round. If you cannot find a suitable piece of wood, a satisfactory base may be made by gluing together several thickness of heavy cardboard after it has been cut to the desired size. Instead of inserting the spike from the top down as shown in Figure 1, insert it upward from the bottom of the

Attaches in Turkey Ordered to Ankara

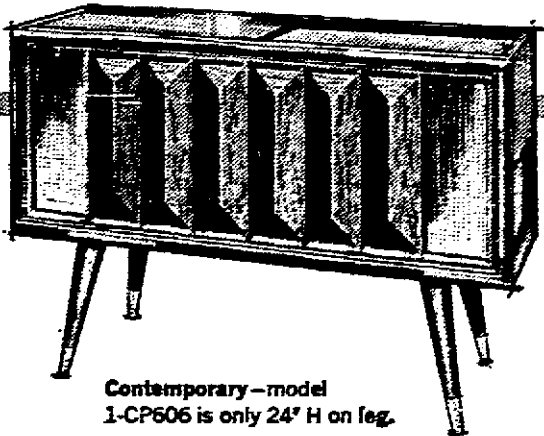

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — The government has told foreign diplomatic attaches to move from Istanbul to Ankara, the Turkish capital, by Sept. 30 or lose their diplomatic immunity. "This is to stop all attaches—primarily those from East bloc countries—from using their diplomatic immunity as a cloak for espionage activities," said a Western diplomat. Istanbul long has been a favorite spot for diplomats to watch shipping.

Houston Continues To Amaze League; Reds Keep Winning

Astros Sweep Pair From Cubs; Giants Beat Dodgers, 6 to 4

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds are beginning to rise to the surface, but the big question in the National League is whether the Houston Astros are in over their heads.

Expected to be among the pennant contenders, the slow-starting Reds continued their climb from the tail-end section of the standings Wednesday night, moving to within one victory of the .500 level by beating the New York Mets 4-2. The Reds now have won 10 of their last 12 games.

At the same time, the Astros, expected to be down where the Reds were, reeled off their 14th and 15th victories in the last 19 games by sweeping a double-header from the Chicago Cubs 5-1 and 4-2. Houston has moved to within 2½ games of front-running San Francisco.

Respectable

The big question is whether the Astros are serious contenders or early season pretenders. So far, however, their bid has to be considered. As a whole, the team is hitting a respectable .245 and the pitching staff has a combined earned run average of 2.78.

And, the Astros have been getting some solid individual performances. Second baseman Joe Morgan is hitting at a .342 clip, outfielder Jim Wynn is among the runs-batted-in leaders with 23 and shortstop Sonny Jackson is the runner-up in stolen bases with 12 to 14 for Maury Wills of Los Angeles.

The Giants, meanwhile, remained at the head of the standings with a 697 percentage to Houston's 625, by downing the third-place Dodgers 6-4. Philadelphia climbed into fourth by edging St. Louis 4-3 and Atlanta whipped Pittsburgh 4-2.

Wynn smacked a two-run double and Lee Maye and Rusty Staub hit homers in support of Dave Gusti's seven-hit pitching in the Astros' opening game victory. Catcher John Bateman homered for Houston in the nightcap but the key plays were two errors by the Cubs' Ernie Banks that led to three unearned runs.

Rocket '9' Beats Kimberly

KIMBERLY — Neenah High School baseball team, with the Mid-Eastern Conference championship safely tucked away, posted a 9-3 victory over Kimberly in its league finale here Wednesday afternoon.

Gary Losse went the distance for the Rockets and scattered four hits while striking out six and walking six.

The win was the seventh straight without a loss for Neenah in the conference. Kimberly now has a 2-4 loop record.

Gary Gossens went the route for the Papermakers and posted two strikeouts while walking a pair. He was touched for nine hits by the Rockets including a 3-run homer by Joe Muench in the second. Jim Fetters had

Bees Rally For 2-1 and 6-5 Verdicts

BURLINGTON — The Fox Cities Foxes clung to a half-game lead over Burlington today after dropping a pair of "last minute" contests to the Bees Wednesday night, 2-1 and 6-5.

The Foxes and Bees tangled again tonight at Burlington in the last game of the series.

Mickey Abarbanel ran his 2-game strikeout total to 27 in the opener, but yielded a pair of unearned runs in the bottom of the seventh and was charged with his first loss of the year.

The Foxes had taken the lead in their half of the inning on Al Kristowski's line homer over the right field wall. Bill McNulty opened the inning for the Bees with a single and watched as Burlington loaded the bases on a pair of sacrifice bunts and two throwing errors by the Foxes. Jay Petersen then threw wild to the plate on a grounder and the tying and winning runs raced home.

Yields 2 Hits

Rick Majewski pitched the win, yielding just two hits. Abarbanel fanned 11 and gave up four hits.

The Foxes scored a pair of runs in the fifth inning of the second contest as Bob Von Eps doubled for the first hit off Charles MacDonald and starting pitcher Steve Kokor singled him to third. A wild pitch scored Von Eps and Kokor scored on Jim Maness' single to left.

Fox Cities grabbed a 3-run margin in the extra inning of the scheduled 7-inning contest on singles by Bill Melton, Kristowski and Ron Lolich and a throwing error.

The Bees scored four times in their half of the frame. The leadoff batter was safe on an error and Bill Bradley hit a fly to deep right that was a sure homer. The ball, however, struck a bird — killing it — and dropped at the base of the wall for a double.

Willie Hooker came in to pitch and yielded a 2-run double to Jim Clark. A single by Bob Clifton tied the score and, after a pair of sacrifice bunts and intentional walks, a sacrifice fly by Pete Koegel drove home the winning margin.

Football trophies will be presented to Little Chute St. John's Joe Schaefer and Kaukauna's Bob Promer. The basketball award will go to Kimberly's John Reider. Track awards will be given to Xavier's Jim Gmeiner and Menasha's Dan Hoks.

In halloting by area coaches, writers and broadcasters, Promer and Schaefer tied for the football award, and Hoks and Gmeiner deadlocked for the track award.

Reider, as the sole basketball winner, received the highest number of votes. The awards presentation on "High School Day" at Goodland Field will precede the Foxes-Dubuque Midwest League game.

Another feature of the afternoon will be the presentation of two motorbikes to students — one to a boy and one to a girl.

Many other prizes, including Foxes tickets, record albums, etc., will also be present. Among the units that will provide entertainment will be the Xavier pep band and Denny Noie and the "In-Crowd."

The admission for high school students will be 50 cents — for booster buttons.

Mincher, Killebrew Pace Twins to 7-1 Win Over Chisox

Don Lock's Catch at 408-Foot Sign Saves Nats' 4-3 Triumph

Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Mincher didn't have much time and Harmon Killebrew didn't waste any.

But for fast work, how about Washington's Don Lock, who didn't have a moment to spare in making a game-saving catch for the Senators?

Mincher and Killebrew provided the thunder and lightning with long home runs Wednesday night as the Minnesota Twins rocked Chicago 7-1.

Lock, playing center field, raced to the 408-foot sign in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, leaped and speared pinch hitter Duke Sims' bid for a home run, preserving Washington's 4-3 victory over the Indians.

Mincher was on the Twins' bench until the fifth inning when he replaced Rich Rollins, who left the game because of an upset stomach. But he made the most of his abbreviated stint, pushing across four runs in two appearances.

Mincher Homer

In the fifth, Mincher came up with the bases loaded and drew a run-producing walk. Two innings later, he poled a 375-foot homer with Cesar Tovar and Killebrew on base.

Killebrew, off to his slowest home run pace in six seasons, hit his second of the season and 29th of his career in the first inning, giving Jim (Mudcat) Grant a quick lead.

Killebrew's shot off Gary Peters went 425 feet to right center and scored Tony Oliva, who had reached third on a fielder's choice following Tovar's single.

Washington's Pete Richter took a four-hit shutout into the ninth, but then was tagged by Rocky Colavito's pinch three-run homer. That brought Casey Cox on in relief and Sims up to swing for Joe Azcue.

Sims smashed Cox' pitch to deepest center but Lock, off with the swing, leaped and caught the ball, robbing Sims of a homer and ending the game.

In other action Wednesday night, Kansas City swept a double-header from California 7-1.

Rhodes said the franchise holder would guarantee to pay the visiting team on the basis of a $5,000 sellout, even while playing in the 35,000-seat stadium.

Rozelle estimated that the difference in the visiting club's share between a $5,000-seat stadium and a 35,000-seat plant would be about $25,000 to $30,000 a game. That would come to a subsidy of about $200,000 for the seven home games in 1967.

Porter has been coming on fast in both the 220 and 440 and Davis is hoping his experience from last year's meet will help him in the weekend test.

Bob Strampe Captures ABC Masters Title

Averages 219 in Winning Seven Straight Matches

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Strampe of Detroit whipped Al Thompson of Cleveland twice Wednesday to win the American Bowling Congress Masters Tournament.

Strampe won seven straight matches with a 219 average in the four-day double elimination final to take the $4,000 title. He picked up an additional $400 in bonus prizes.

Thompson and Strampe were the only undefeated bowlers as the last day of the tournament began.

The 35-year-old champion dumped Thompson into the loser's bracket early in the day by defeating him 847-828 in four games. The victory earned Strampe a berth in the title match.

Thompson toppled Wayne Zahn of Atlanta 822-784 to earn another shot at Strampe.

Worse Beating But Strampe handed him a worse beating this time, 873-799.

The match was fairly close until the middle of the third game when Strampe fired seven straight strikes. In the final, Strampe shot 182-210-258-230 to Thompson's 185-194-225-195.

Thompson's runner-up prizes, totaled $3,350. He won six matches, lost two and averaged 218 per game.

Third-place Zahn, who won $2,700, compiled the best average in the field, 224.

Only Billy Welu of St. Louis, who failed here in an effort to win a third straight Masters crown, has ever compiled a better average. Welu rolled at a 227 pace enroute to the 1964 title.

Appellate Court Alters Ruling on Ralph Neely

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that Ralph Neely must play with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League if he wants to compete in pro football.

The court reversed a decision by U.S. District Judge Stephen Chandler of Oklahoma City, who said Neely's contract belonged to the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League. Neely is a former University of Oklahoma tackle and played for Dallas last season.

The appellate court described Neely as a "bright young man, ably advised by his father-in-law, who knew exactly what he wanted." It said Neely negotiated a contract with Houston, then, when a better opportunity arose, shifted to Dallas.

The court said the purpose of the contract was to preserve Neely's eligibility, but to prevent his ineligibility from becoming known to Oklahoma officials.

But word of the Oiler contract got out and Neely was not permitted to compete in the Gator Bowl game at Jacksonville, Fla. Jan. 2, 1965.

Houston attorneys in their appeal said Neely signed a four-up with four runs in the eighth inning with the help of errors by second baseman Jim Lefebvre and outfielder Ron Fairly. Hal Lanier singled in the tying run, and when Lefebvre fumbled the ball, Tito Fuentes came around (P) 3 x 3; Bob Opsahl (P) 3 x 4; Zuberbie (A) 2 x 4; Jahnke scored the lead run.

Aaron Homers Hank Aaron and Woody Woodward produced the Braves' runs. Aaron connecting for his 13th homer, a two-run shot, and Woodward stroking a pair of run-producing doubles. Ken Johnson got the victory, scattering nine hits. Vern Law, just off the disabled list, took the loss — his first in last 11 decisions.

The 2,000th hit of Dick Groat's major league career helped the Phillies to the winning run against the Cardinals. Tony Taylor led off the seventh inning with a single, moved to third on Groat's hit and scored when Jerry Buchek bobbled Bill White's doubleplay grounder. Bob Gibson was the loser and now is 3-5.

APPLETON AUTO SAFETY DAYS MAY 18-28
YOU'RE IN THE DRIVER'S SEAT...

QUESTION?
your gas pedal sticks...how will you react to this common driving emergency?

ANSWER:
Here's what to do. While your first reaction might be to apply the brakes while reaching down to attempt to free the pedal, don't. The first thing to do is to put your car in neutral. Don't turn off the ignition since this can cause the power-braking and power-steering systems to become inoperative. With the car in neutral, brake gradually and ease the car off onto the shoulder of the road. After coming to a complete stop, turn off the ignition, set the parking brake and signal for assistance.

This emergency driving situation is a common occurrence which has led to many serious accidents. Your ability to do the right thing when this situation occurs can mean the difference between life and death.

Rebels Surrounded at Da Nang Stronghold

Heavy Fire Continues For Four Hours Around Buddhists' Stronghold

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's troops surrounded a government loudspeaker truck today after more than four hours of heavy shooting around the Buddhist stronghold. The government appeared trying to choke off the dissidents rather than wipe them out in a direct attack.

In an attempt to exploit the turmoil, the Viet Cong's underground Liberation radio threw Communist support behind the rebels and urged all South Vietnamese troops to "rise up" against the government.

Avoid Viet Cong
Buddhist leaders in Saigon and the northern provinces sent pleas for intervention to end the civil strife to world leaders, but significantly the monks avoided any association with the Viet Cong overtures.

The Buddhists also canceled all rallies today to avoid the impression that they might be in honor of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh's 76th birthday today.

In the war against the Communists, only one major ground action was reported and monsoon rains held U.S. Air Force and Navy planes to 23 missions against North Viet Nam.

The U.S. command announced the loss, apparently to ground fire, of an Air Force C123 cargo plane on a flare-drop mission 36 miles northwest of Qui Nhon. Bodies of two crewmen were found in the wreckage, and the other three were listed as missing.

Death Toll
Allied dead and missing last week, announced today, remained at the level of the week before, but the enemy killed more than doubled. Spokesmen announced 86 Americans killed compared to 82 the week before. 91 South Vietnamese killed or missing in action as against 82 last week. 988 Viet Cong killed and 192 captured as compared to 456 killed and 121 captured last week.

Both loyalist and antigovernment forces took casualties as the eruption of fighting in Da Nang, South Viet Nam's second largest city, created the danger of a war within a war.

The shooting came in two-hour outbursts during the morning and in the afternoon as Ky's forces closed in on three Buddhist pagodas where an estimated 1,000 troops and Buddhists

Theodore Green, Retired Senator, Succumbs at 98

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Theodore Francis Green, 98, who retired from the U.S. Senate in 1960, died today at his home. He was the oldest man ever to serve in the Senate.

Green

Green's doctor said his heart failed.

Green was stricken in late 1962 with a series of cerebral strokes.

For four months he was hospitalized and then went into a nursing home. He left the convalescent home three months later, stepping spryly into a car for the drive to his own home.

Green suffered a broken hip in his home three weeks before his 96th birthday, Oct. 2, 1965.

Warden Says Regents Head Blocked Justice

Complaint Sworn Out in Ashland Against Attorney

ASHLAND (AP)—A conservation warden has sworn out a complaint against the president of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents after a dispute over seizure of an automobile wanted for evidence in an investigation.

The warden said the automobile was owned by a man arrested after another warden was killed in an accident while chasing persons suspected of illegal fishing.

L. Arthur De Bardeleben of Park Falls called the charges in the complaint "absurd and ridiculous."

The warden, Don Nimmer of Mellen, said DeBardeleben, an attorney, was accused of obstructing an officer and disorderly conduct.

Disorderly Conduct
Also charged with disorderly conduct was Adelaide Wanda of Butternut, Nimmer said.

"The first I've heard of it is right now," DeBardeleben told The Associated Press. "If there's been such a charge made, I'll be prepared to reply to it at the proper time and place."

DeBardeleben was reached by telephone at Marshfield Hospital where he is under treatment for an abdominal ailment.

Nimmer said his disagreement with DeBardeleben came May 8 in Butternut during an investigation into the death of Charles Wraga, who operated B. Markle's bar.

Markle's car overturned in the Bass Lake area while he was chasing persons suspected of illegal spear fishing.

Arrested in the case was James Stubblefield, 47, of rural Butternut.

Auto Found
Several hours before Stubblefield's arrest, his automobile was found on property owned by Mrs. Wanda in Butternut.

Nimmer said the car was sealed and tagged as evidence before a wrecker was called by wardens to haul it away.

Nimmer said Mrs. Wanda objected to the seizure and DeBardeleben was called to the scene.

The attorney said he was in Butternut that day "defending a client charged with a number of violations of the conservation laws."

He said a demand was made on Mrs. Wanda for personal property.

Delay Senate Move

State Assembly Okays Bill to Lift Ban on Colored Margarine

MADISON (AP)—The State Assembly for the first time in its history, gave final approval today to a bill eliminating Wisconsin's ban on colored oleomargarine.

Following a 54-39 vote, opponents succeeded in stopping the bill from moving on to the Senate.

Assemblyman David O'Malley, D-Waunakee, chairman of the Assembly Agriculture Committee moved reconsideration of the vote. The motion delayed further action until next week.

Special Order
The bill's author, Assemblyman Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, succeeded in making O'Malley's motion a special order of business Wednesday. A previous motion by Froehlich to suspend the rules and reconsider the vote immediately failed.

A seven cents a pound tax would be put on colored oleo if it becomes legal. Funds from the levy would be earmarked for dairy research and promotion, and a dairy farmers' security fund. The fund would guaranty payments to farmers for milk when a dairy plant closes.

If the proposal is sent to the Senate before the end of the spring session, it will face a determined fight by the Senate's Agriculture Committee chairman, Earl Leverich, R-Sparta.

Assembly passage came after only minor debate.

Little Commissions Advised by Kellett

Head of State Efficiency Audit Says Most Taxes Spent Locally

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Business Editor
GREEN LAKE — Formation of "Little Hoover Commissions" in individual Wisconsin communities was recommended here Wednesday afternoon by the man who heads the commission conducting an efficiency audit of the state government in Madison.

Kellett said if "these Little Hoover Commissions or Kellett Commissions were active in local communities like our committee is in Madison, there could be millions of dollars of unnecessary spending which could be X'ed out."

He emphasized, however, that these studies should not be conducted by members of local government, but by private citizens donating their time and talent.

"An independent viewpoint," he said, "only has the interest of the taxpayers."

"We Like It Here," Kellett said, "only means anything if there is participation. People must realize that liking something means an obligation to participate."

Kellett, who still serves as a director, said his study group has found "a great need" for arranging priorities in demands and service.

"We ought to be able to offer new government services at reductions of costs in old services and agencies," he said.

Savings Already
He said the committee "is only getting started." So far, he said, the committee's recommendations total about $33 million.

Kidnaped Girl Rests After Long Ordeal With Killer

SHADEGAP, Pa. (AP) — Scratches, bruises, blistered feet and sheer fatigue gave evidence today of schoolgirl Peggy Ann Bradnick's week-long ordeal as the captive of a crazed kidnaper and killer.

Peggy Ann, 17, rested in the Fulton County Medical Center in nearby McConnellsburg. She was safe after a week of hiding and running with her captor, who sometimes dragged her by a chain around her neck as he fled from a massive manhunt in the wooded Tuscarora hillsides.

Two men were dead when the drama ended. One was an FBI agent shot by the kidnaper Tuesday. The other, the kidnaper, William Diller Hollenbaugh, 44, was killed in a final gun battle Wednesday in which a deputy sheriff was wounded.

Kidnaped Girl
Hollenbaugh kidnaped Peggy Ann, a quiet, pretty high school girl, at gunpoint May 11 while she and her five brothers and sisters walked home from school.

Dr. Gerald T. Lorentz, medical director at the center, spoke with the girl after her rescue. He said Peggy Ann indicated she spent the first two or three days of captivity in a house or shelter before the pair took to the woods.

A spokesman for the state commented during the massive manhunt that the kidnaper apparently knew the area — one of rocky, wooded mountains and deep valleys — "like the back of his hand."

"I gather she slept outside during those nights," Lorentz said. "She and Hollenbaugh ate beans and corn out of cans."

Lorentz said the girl told him the kidnaper dragged her by a chain around the neck several times.

Dr. Robert Fry, a physician at the center, said he found no evidence the girl had been molested.

"Bicycle Bill"

Peggy Ann may have recognized her captor as the lone figure frequently seen pedaling a battered red bicycle through the neighborhood. Local residents of the tiny nearby community of Burnt Cabins called him "Bicycle Bill" and considered him "very strange."

No suspicion publicly was cast on Hollenbaugh during the first few days of the search for Peggy Ann.

But it was later revealed he was a suspect almost from the start and police watched his two-room cabin just off Route 522.

Hollenbaugh's record — a 5-to-10 year penitentiary term for burglary, plus 13 years in Farview State Hospital for the criminally insane — placed him under suspicion. He also

5,000 at Wednesday Rally

Only Token Force Remains in UW Draft Policy Sit-In Demonstration

MADISON (AP) — University of Wisconsin students protesting against draft policies continued their Administration Building occupation with only a token force today.

About two dozen students were in the building.

Spokesmen for the sit-in forces said the demonstration would probably continue on a token basis until a faculty hearing.

University officials set the special faculty meeting for next Monday. The students decided to continue the sit-in demonstration when they couldn't agree on whether the meeting meant victory for their demands.

"We have won," argued one. "We were outlasted," said another.

Outdoor Rally

Chancellor Robben W. Fleming announced the meeting to a throng of students at an outdoor rally Wednesday. The date next week is only two days in advance of a faculty meeting that had been announced earlier by University President Fred Harvey Harrington.

The protesters are demanding that the university refuse to send to draft boards any academic information, such as grades and class standing, for use in determining student deferments.

The present university policy is to transmit the information only on signed request of an individual student.

About 100 campers maintained their around-the-clock sit-in in the main lobby of the four-story administration building after a long argument over whether to end the protest. They decided it should be continued until the meeting next Monday.

Fleming told an estimated 5,000 students gathered on Bascom Hill that he would recommend that one or two student representatives be invited to address the faculty session. He promised that the present policy would be reviewed.

"The faculty has decided to face the issue," said John Coatsworth, a graduate student. "In short, we have won."

Afterwards, however, about 500 students returned to the administration building and heard one speaker shout, "We were outlasted. We didn't win a damn thing."

The protesters have argued that the university should not cooperate in any way with the use of classroom grades as a standard to decide who should be drafted.

Student's Choice

The university has replied that its policy gives a student the choice of whether he shall meet present selective service requirements to furnish grades and class rank in requesting a deferment.

The campers argued Wednesday night whether to expand their protest to demonstrate all-outfitted. We didn't win a damn thing."

The protesters have argued that the university should not cooperate in any way with the use of classroom grades as a standard to decide who should be drafted.

Heart Pump Removed From Man's Chest

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A partial artificial heart has been removed from the chest of a retired Navy chief petty officer.

Surgeons at Methodist Hospital said Walter L. McCans' heart condition had improved enough to assume normal function after it had been assisted by the mechanical pump for 27 hours.

He's "still doing fine," a hospital spokesman said today. "He's holding his own."

McCans, 61, Woodinville, Wash., received the plastic pump, also called a left ventricular bypass, Tuesday in a five-hour operation. The pump is designed to ease the heart's work load and give a damaged chamber time to heal.

Chest Fluid
The partial artificial heart of heart failure, the hospital was removed Wednesday night. The device therefore was removed, it said.

The fluid, according to an earlier hospital bulletin, was causing McCans trouble with his lungs and breathing. But following the operation to remove the heart device they said his vital signs were stable.

The hospital's advisory Wednesday night said removal of the chest fluid caused improvement of lung function and treatment was initiated toward control of a hemorrhagic (bleeding) tendency.

Tests during the removal of the pump indicated McCans' heart condition had improved sufficiently to assume normal function without assistance of the pump and with no evidence of heart failure, the hospital stated. The device therefore was removed, it said.

Knowles Defends Wisconsin Taxes During Conference

Business Realizes Tax Rates Are Not Out of Line, He Says

Let's talk a little about slacks with Fortrel...

Cary Middlecoff, CBS-TV's noted golf commentator

"What makes a great slack? Styling, for one thing. Slim, trim, uncluttered appearance that enhances your form, for another. But most important is comfort. The many built in extras in Cary Middlecoff slacks assure you of that. Take Permahold®... absolutely prevents waist-band curl. Or "Hipstripe". It's there to keep your shirt tucked in firmly at all times. Or "Lok-Tab"... hidden inside adjuster tabs with pressure-sensitive Velcro® closing. And for golfers, how about the handy, sewn-in towel holder? These slacks are made of a cool, wrinkle-free, automatic wash'n wear blend of 55% Fortrel® polyester/45% Bud-Rel® rayon."

Malaysia Ready for Peace Talks With New Rulers of Indonesia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Malaysian Cabinet announced today that it is ready to open peace talks immediately with Indonesia's new government. The Cabinet proposed that Deputy Prime Minister Abdul Razak meet with Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik "to make use of the present favorable and hopeful atmosphere."

The Malaysian announcement was in response to recent Indonesian peace feelers and reports from Jakarta that the government there was ready for a separate meeting to seek ways to end the three-year undeclared war between the two countries.

'Smart Shopping' Suggested by Supermarkets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's supermarket industry suggests housewives employ "smart shopping" and "buysmanship" to help beat the rising cost of living.

The National Association of Food Chains, representing 250 major firms, said shoppers should watch for special sales on "items which are priced especially below normal, frequently because they are in abundant supply."

Stung by government reports of sharply rising food prices, the association in its first public statement on the subject criticized the government's consumer price index as a "poor indicator of the consumer's actual food bill." It said it is urging some 20,000 affiliated chain stores to help housewives learn to get more for their money.

Medicare Is Spending Spark For Elderly

Those Over 65 Now
Buying Items With
New Philosophy

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A rising stream of spending by the elderly is giving the economy a boost, thanks to Medicare. Merchants and service industries in communities where the over-65 gather say that the upward trend is already apparent, even though Medicare itself doesn't start until July 1.

And the spending philosophy of many still some distance from the 65 mark is likely to be changed as the urge to save loses one of its most pressing reasons.

Also, corporations with employees nearing or past 65 are taking a second look at their pension plans and health insurance programs. Some of these are being revamped to cover the gaps in Medicare and even to provide for the cost of the added protection — $3 a month on a voluntary basis.

More Spending
When Medicare actually starts some seven weeks from now, the economy may start measuring another form of increased spending, offshoot of providing for greater consumption of medical supplies and services.

The spending trend is based on both financial psychology and hard cash realities.

Many now living on pensions, whether private or Social Security, or on fixed incomes from their life savings, are being freed from the pressure to go on putting aside part of these small amounts against the dire possibility of a health disaster.

So the fixed incomes, whether pension or otherwise, are being stretched in effectiveness. The fringe benefits of higher living standards, even small luxuries, become a possibility.

Buying More
Merchants say some of their older customers are telling them that they are already taking this view of the future and so are splurging for the items they want badly but until of late were afraid to buy. The same philosophy is being expressed by some still under 65, since the health risk period is limited financially to the years before 65 instead of also including all the years after that.

The travel industry expects to benefit by this, as well as the merchants. Promoters of homes for the elderly already are using it as a sales point. Makers of a long list of goods favored by the elderly are talking of increased production schedules.

The most obvious recipient of increased spending by the elderly will be the health industry itself. Many past 65 are expected to seek relief for ailments, they felt they couldn't afford to do anything about — except put up with.

Taxes Increased
But for the economy in general, the spending spurge won't be just a one-way street. Money will be taken from the spending stream to pay for Medicare. Already Social Security taxes have gone up. This means that both workers and employers are contributing more to the government agency. This is money which the worker won't be spending himself, and money which the employer won't have for conducting or expanding his business.

Taxpayers also are likely, in the months and years ahead, to be called upon to foot larger bills at all levels of government for the building of new hospitals, medical schools, and other facilities will be privately financed, but many will be met in part by public funds. And in the long run, it's the taxpayer who pays.

Bosch Gives Rulers Terrorism Ultimatum

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Juan Bosch has given the provisional Dominican government until Thursday to take "satisfactory and evident" measures to end terrorism and violence against his party. Otherwise, he said, he will withdraw from the June 1 presidential election.

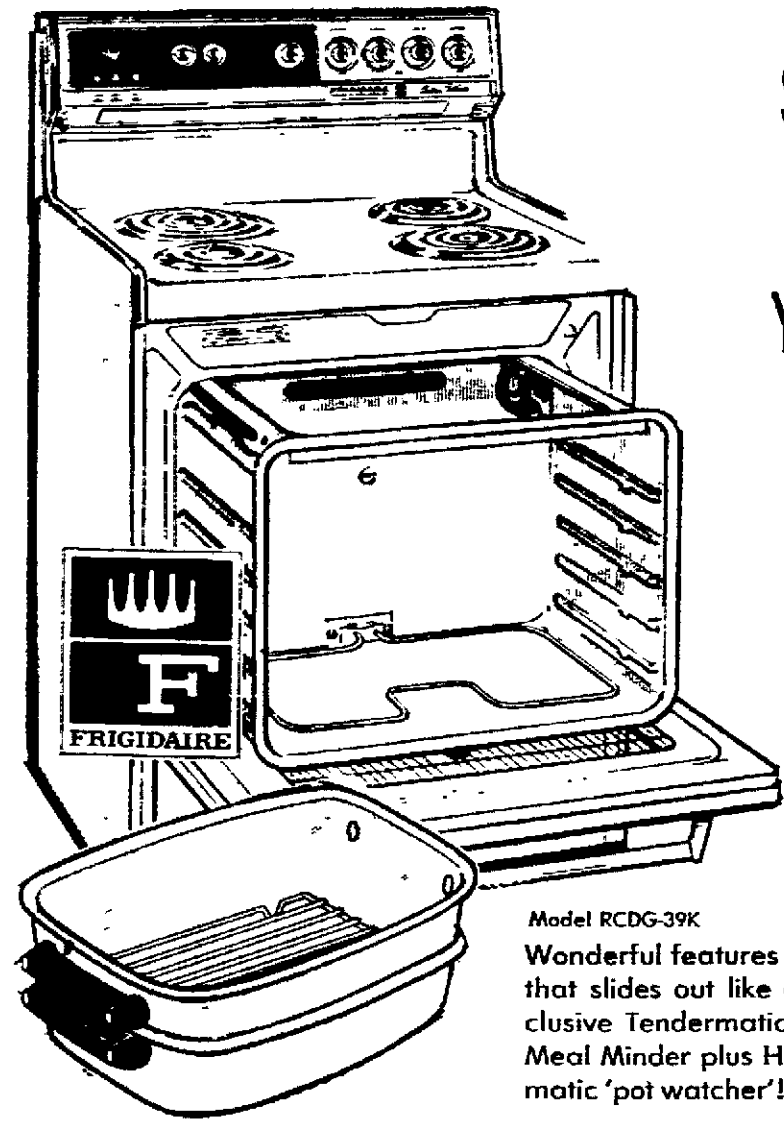

Bosch, a former president and candidate of the Dominican Revolutionary Party, claimed in a broadcast Tuesday that the police and the armed forces were persecuting workers for his party in the interior.
